LODGE'S SECRETARY MUST SERVE TEN MONTHS' JAIL TERM

Senator Lodge's former secretary, Robert G. Proctor, who must serve jail term.

Full Bench of Superior Court Overrules Objections and Proctor Will Have to Go to Deer Island—Now Said to Be in Goldfield, Nevada, but Exact Whereabouts a Mystery.

Robert G. Proctor, secretary to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge for thirteen years, must don the uniform of the House of Correction on Deer Island and serve ten months at hard labor for the larceny of $225 which was handed to him to be turned over to the Republican State Committee.

This is the result of a hard legal fight made for the young man by former Attorney General Herbert Parker at one of the most sensational trials from a political standpoint ever held in this State. Mr. Parker carried the battle to the Supreme Court, which to-day decided against him. The full bench overruled his exceptions.

BELIEVE HIM AT GOLDFIELD.

Proctor is now at liberty under bail in the sum of $500. Just where he is nobody will admit knowing. Former Attorney General Parker to-day declared that he had not heard from him in several weeeks. It is known that he was at Goldfield, Nev., some months ago and friends believe he returned there.

District Attorney Moran will to-day notify Mr. Parker about the court decision and inquire to him when he would like to have Proctor appear before him. Usually a few days are allowed for this to give the person time to arrange his personal affairs.

This is the statement made to-day by former Attorney-General Parker:

Parker In Ignorance.

"I have no idea where Mr. Proctor is at present. I have not heard from him for weeks, and I have absolutely no idea of where he can be located. Of course, I shall take means to try and get into communication with my client at once.

"As soon as the district attorney notifies me when the defendant must appear, I will try and have him present.

"I have not seen any of Mr. Proctor's relatives or friends for some time, neither do I know where his mother or his relatives are at present."

Questioned as to whether or not he proposed to institute further legal proceedings to stay the sentence, or if he had any comment to make in view of the court's decision, Mr. Parker said:

"I have nothing to say about that."

REPORT WIFE IN WASHINGTON.

A friend of Proctor who should know of his movements, when asked by a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day as to his whereabouts, said:

"He went to Goldfield some months ago. He is interested in mines there. I heard that he was in New York about three weeks ago. He told a friend of mine that he had been doing well in Nevada and that he was going back at once. His wife, as I understand it, is in Washington with her people."

When Proctor was arrested and bailed by State Senator Daniel [illegible] was [illegible] and Surveyor of the Port Jeremiah J. McCarthy. When a verdict of guilty was found against him it became necessary to have a new bail bond made out, although the amount of bail, $500, was not changed. As the bondsmen could not be reached at once, cash bail was put up.

RESULT OF MORAN'S PROBE.

The indictment and conviction of Proctor was one of the results of the aggressive probing of conditions by District Attorney Moran. The downfall of Lodge's secretary came through John G. Bestgen of Quincy. Mr. Betsgen wanted a German consulship. He was tipped off that the way to go about it was to make good with the Republican State Committee behind which stood its guiding spirit, Mr. Lodge.

Young Proctor was Lodge's secretary and in very close touch with the members of the State Committee. Bestgen thought that the best way to get his contribution to the cause in the hands of the proper people was to hand it to Lodge's secretary. This he did. The sum was $225. Proctor at the trial admitted that he had received the contribution.

"What did you do with it?" he was asked by the assistant district attorney.

"I gave it to some one competent to receive it," was the peculiar reply.

"Have you any idea who that was?"

"I have not."

TRIAL SENSATIONAL.

Proctor was indicted in April of last year. He was then the secretary of Mr. Lodge. He resigned or at least it was given out that he did. Mr. Lodge said that he did not demand the resignation, but he thought the action of the young man creditable to him. This statement of Senator Lodge was made on April 17. On June 28, following, Proctor, testifying under oath, said:

"I have been secretary to Senator Lodge for the past thirteen years and am still acting in that capacity."

The trial was a sensational one. Senator Lodge was one of the witnesses. So was James B. Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury. Everything that political pull could accomplish was done to get Proctor out of the bad hole into which he had fallen, for the good of the G. O. P., but all the forces brought into play were defeated by Mr. Moran.

PET BEAR GETS A GOLD TOOT

BRIDGEPORT, May 14.—Pete, the one-and-a-half-old black bear, owned by Jim B. Tuttle, a druggist of Stratford, now wearing a gold crown on the left tooth of the left side of his lower jaw, began ailing about a month ago. It was decayed.

ARREST JUROR, SENSATION IN HAYWOOD CASE

BOISE, Ida., May 14.—With all of the seats in the jury box occupied, although but four members have passed for cause by both sides, and all are still subject to peremptory challenge, the third day of the trial of William D. Haywood for the murder of Frank Steunenberg began. The prospects are good for the selection of at least four jurors before court finally adjourns to-day.

When the court proceedings were resumed Attorney Richardson took up the examination of juror No. 5, J. L. Waggoner, who already has been accepted, subject to peremptory challenge, by the prosecution. It developed early that Waggoner had been approached by a man who tried to tell him about the merits of the case. The judge was informed. The man was placed under arrest and bound over by a magistrate to the District Court.

Mostly Republicans.

Attorney Richardson is determined to secure an unbiased jury, and his questioning at times seems to border closely on the insulting. This becomes more and more evident as he grills the veniremen suspected of being rabid partisans of Governor Gooding, who is the real head and front of the prosecution.

"What are your politics?" fairly snarls Richardson, as he focuses his attention on a talesman.

"Republican, eh? Well, do you think you could give us fair a trial to a Democrat as you could to a Republican accused of murder?"

73 to Choose From.

"You could? Suppose he was a Socialist. Suppose now," and his heavy and somewhat repulsive voice dies down to a semi-confident tone, "just suppose that it should be determined, should, in fact, come out in evidence, that this defendant (here his voice gains added force, until it is raised almost to a shouting pitch) was and is a Socialist, could you give him fair treatment and render a verdict simply and according to the evidence and law laid down by the Judge?"

A peculiar fact which has caused considerable comment in that so far every talesman questioned said he was a Republican. This has given rise to the allegation that discrimination has been shown in summoning veniremen.

The county went against Governor Gooding by 600 odd votes, yet none of the men questioned for jury duty has admitted that he is a Democrat.

Few Try to Evade Jury Work.

The seventy-three veniremen remaining in the panel were early in their seats waiting to answer a call to duty. They are a stalwart lot, real products of outdoor life. All are plainly well past early manhood and just the kind of men who seem fitted to render a just verdict. It is peculiar, too, that few are deliberately trying to evade jury service.

Little Henrietta Haywood, the defendant's seven-year-old daughter, may have a great deal to do with the final decision of the case if she is permitted to be her father's constant companion when the actual taking of evidence begins.

Master Stops Injunction Proceedings; GET TOGETHER, SAYS COLT

Counsel Feeley of Employers' Association to Call Members in Conference.

James B. Colt, the master who is hearing testimony on the merits of the complaints of the master teamsters against their striking employes, has halted the injunction proceedings in an effort to end the strike.

Counsel J. J. Feeley, at the request of Master Colt, is conferring with the master teamsters, to see whether or not they will accept the suggestion of Mr. Colt.

Report of what agreement the master teamsters will make is to be made when the injunction hearing opens this afternoon.

A hurried conference of the master teamsters has been called.

"I think these people ought to get together," said Mr. Colt to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "They are not so very far apart. It seems to me that they should meet with each other and settle this thing right away."

Attorney Feeley declined to discuss the conference with his clients, the employers, in any way.

Union team drivers on strike against ten trucking firms for shorter hours and an increase in wages are in the fight to win.

Encouraged by the action of the Boston Central Labor Union and the State branch of the American Federation of Labor, committees of which bodies meet to-night to take steps to finance the strike and give Local No. 25 the moral support of organized labor throughout the State, the union leaders see nothing but victory in sight.

Failure on the part of members of the Master Teamsters' Association to order their drivers to haul freight for "struck" firms yesterday, at which time it was boasted the move would be made, satisfied the union leaders that the employers have backed down in their plan to force a general strike.

No Aid for "Struck" Firms.

Not a union teamster was compelled to leave his team because he was ordered to move freight for "struck" firms.

That the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration has made no move in an effort to end the strike, now in its seventh week, after they had received official notification that the strike was on from Mayor Fitzgerald, to whose attention the law was called by the BOSTON AMERICAN, has caused considerable comment.

Yesterday the Board announced that it was in a receptive mood and prepared to receive both sides in conference. So far their action has been taken. To all appearances the Board is waiting for both sides to come to them and ask them to arbitrate. They have done nothing as an official body to end the strike.

To Notify 1,800 Unions.

At the meeting to-night of the Executive Board of the State Branch, A. F. of L., and the working committee appointed by the Central Labor Union in Wells Memorial Building, a circular will be drawn up and sent to the 1,800 labor unions in the State and to others in New England if necessary.

The Boston Central Labor Union represents 80,000 members and there are over 200,000 affiliated with the State Branch.

"Our object is to raise a large fund and throw it into the centre of the Employers' Association's fight in this city," said President Hedell of the Central Labor Union.

Union Fights to Finish.

Edward Cohen, president of the State branch, A. F. of L., said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"Through the institution of the teamsters' strike, now on in this city, we are going to fight the Employers' Association to a finish. This will mark the beginning of a contest between the 'open shop' organization and organized labor which will last until either side acknowledges defeat.

"Even if the teamsters are successful we will still continue our fight against the Employers' Association."

President Arthur M. Huddell of the Boston Central Labor Union, said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

Back Teamsters with Fund.

"We have decided to take hold of this matter and fight it to the bitter end. Our treasury is open and members of affiliated unions are even willing to assess themselves in order to finance the strike.

"The whole question in our estimation is a battle of a few men to establish the 'open shop.' If the so-called Employers' Association, the Master Builders' Association and the Bottlers' Association are behind the master teamsters and are determined to fight organized labor, we believe that organized labor should protect itself by insisting that part of the organization on which the fight has been centred.

Says "Open Shop" a Blind.

"The statement of the Employers' Association that it is a question of the 'open shop' is only an attempt to blind the public, as their real issue is the 'closed shop' which is closed to union men. The employer of labor who cannot see the union is either asleep or blind and needs awakening.

"This is not the fight alone of the Teamsters' Union. It is a national fight. It is the fight of organized labor. The issues are such that organized labor must take a stand and insist upon their rights as well as masses."

Several of the master teamsters have got rid of a number of their strike-breakers and to-day are working experienced drivers from various parts of New England. J. S. Hilliard & Son put out an 80-horse caravan to-day, with six men on it. It is said that 100 men have been hired since New England to take the place of strikers and strike-breakers.

C. M. Mandell, whose men went out yesterday, did not move a team to-day.

WHEAT BROKERS FACE FAILURES IN PANIC

ASSIGNMENTS OF BIG FIRMS HOURLY EXPECTED AS RESULT OF WILD SPECULATION.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Wheat opened in the Chicago pit to-day wild, irregular and unsettled, with frequent predictions that before closing time some large firms would announce assignments.

One broker, caught short by yesterday's call on margins at 10 per cent, was forced to buy 500,000 bushels on the market. The greatest excitement prevails.

Trading was light, brokers fearing to get in. The bovrsemit was concentrated upon the July option, which opened with a rush at 96¼, shot to 97⅝ and broke harriedly before 10 o'clock to 96.

Liverpool opened 1½ to 2 pence lower. Oats and corn ruled strong.

Most Important Move Comes Today in Effort to Restore Peace.

The most important move in the effort to end the strike of the teamsters was made to-day when Master Builders' Association and Bottlers' Association, which are behind the master teamsters and are determined to fight organized labor, we believe that organized labor should protect itself by insisting that part of the organization on which the fight has been centred.

Says "Open Shop" a Blind.

"The statement of the Employers' Association that it is a question of the 'open shop' is only an attempt to blind the public, as their real issue is the 'closed shop' which is closed to union men. The employer of labor who cannot see the union is either asleep or blind and needs awakening.

LIFE IN JAIL FOR LANG, WHO OWNS MURDER

Edward F. Lang, a private in the United States Marine Corps, is to plead guilty in the first murder case which the federal courts in this city have had to deal since the trial of Thomas M. Bram, who was convicted on board the bark Herbert Fuller, of which he was mate. The case was called for trial at 10 a. m. to-day before Judge Putnam in the United States District Court.

Lang was brought to Boston from Guantanamo, Cuba, where during a quarrel in the barracks last November he killed Corporal John J. Quinn.

When Lang pleads guilty the Judge will instruct the jury to register the verdict with the recommendation "without capital punishment."

Lang will then be sentenced to prison for life.

TO FORM UNION OF INSURANCE AGENTS HERE

Charles P. Lynch of Norwich, Ct., president of the International Union of Life Insurance Agents of North America, arrived here to-day and immediately took steps toward forming a Boston local union of industrial insurance agents. A mass-meeting has been called for to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, at No. 30 Hanover street, to which all agents are invited.

The formation of the International Union of Life Insurance Agents is the first universal movement to organize insurance agents. Several locals have already been formed in New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and the work of organizing in Illinois, Indiana and Massachusetts is now going on.

Purely a Union Movement.

It is a purely trades union movement. It will have no affiliation with the Industrial Workers of the World, but will seek admission to the American Federation of Labor.

"GOLDIE" NEILL IS ON TRIAL

Girl Accused of Killing Husband Shows Same Beauty as When Artist's Model.

IN BRIDGEPORT COURT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., May 14.—Though she was to-day placed on trial for her life, charged with slaying her husband with a nail file, Mrs. Catherine ("Goldie") Neill was perfectly composed as she entered the courtroom.

Save for prison pallor, she showed the same blonde beauty which made her an eagerly sought model by New York artists.

By Charles Somerville.

Sympathy must steal in for Goldie Neill, the little artist's model, famed for the beauty of her auburn hair and lustrous brown eyes and the grace of her slender form, who was to-day taken from the county jail to the courthouse, there to answer the charge of killing Joe Neill, her husband.

Sympathy must steal in when one has considered her life and retraced it from the wild, dissipated days side spent with the man she is accused of murdering, and then back to the gay, careless life of the studios and the stage, for, as one goes further backward the haze of riotous revelries away and the blazing lights of such scenes fade, and one finds the little woman in silent room where the single gleam of a night light falls upon a little boy's white face and lights the thick, beautiful hair of her as she bends over the child.

Never Saw His Mother's Face.

It is Goldie Neill at this cradle—or, rather, Mrs. John Finley, as she was then. And when the little boy tightens his tiny hand around her finger, gasps and dies, this woman's heart breaks.

This little boy never saw his mother's face. His baby lips never smiled to see the dancing sunbeam. The little fellow was born blind. He lived to be three years old, but the eyes in his chubby face were always sightless.

And although she may be the murderess now that she is accused of being, she was a tender mother then and a brave one. She never gave up hope while a chance of hope remained of obtaining from science and from prayer the great gift of sight for her child. She made every sacrifice to meet the big bills of the specialists to whom she took the little fellow for treatment. She thought not at all of herself; she even afterward pawned all that is finest and highest for woman to possess in order to bedeck herself in finery, at this time went about threadbare.

Former Husband Speaks Gently.

Finley, her husband, then, at memory of her devoted conduct toward her little boy, speaks gently and in praise now of the woman who afterward caused him much trouble and shame; who deserted him, divorced him; threw him entirely out of her after life. The little boy died, and it seems that until he died they plied on, was also buried all that was best in Goldie Neill.

From this time she hated her home. Hence the woman sank lower in the scale until from the luxurious apartment where she was to have been found in the cheaper, more sordid places of the metropolis.

Then big Joe Neill came her way, and the scent of the woman, the artist's model, and there remained only the little physical woman who could respond to admiration at the big physical man. He took her to his home in Brooklyn, and divorce might be secured from her first husband. When this was done they were married.

Marriage Was Illegal.

It now appears that this marriage was illegal, owing to the fact of the divorce decree not having gone into effect until several weeks after the marriage ceremony with Joe Neill.

Joe Neill, his relatives say, tired of her in the few weeks that he lived married and greeted the news of the illegality of the wedding rather joyfully than otherwise. Yet, for all that, it appears that after demand he left his wife and her husband in New Rochelle and came to Bridgeport with the woman.

She says she had her purpose in this trip. She was seeking to bring Joe Neill to his senses, after a protracted period of abandonment to debauch.

They were at the hotel in Greenwich. Out of the room they occupied she came to say that he was very ill, and Neill was she brought to the room, a physician among them, saw the big man on the floor and even as they watched him his great chest rose with great efforts as the life blood burst. Finally a great sigh escaped him and he was dead.

It was not until some hours afterward that under the right eye was discovered the tiny wound—the wound that the woman is now accused of having made with a nail file.

The reason for her act they give as revenge—revenge she took against him because her love had turned to hatred when she came to hear that he contemplated leaving her, a hatred increased by the fact that in fits of brutal anger he had beaten her so that the body that had been so fair to the eyes of artists was turned ugly by welts of black and blue.

It is said that she cannot defend herself on this trial by saying that she killed the man because she was in fear of her own life. The prosecution expects to be able to show that not a single mark suggesting a quarrel came out of the room.

What She Might Have Been.

The theories of what her defence will be have already been discussed, but after all has been said, the picture returns of a woman bending over the cradle of a dying child and of a mother turning with bitterly compressed lips from a little girl whose sympathy steals in as one wonders how different and pure the life of Goldie Neill might have been if fate had dealt more kindly toward the little babe on whom the girl love of her life had been centred.

SEVEN-MILLION DOLLAR BRIDE

Mabelle Gilman, Now Mrs. W. E. Corey, to Wed Whom it Is Conservatively Estimated the Steel King Has Expended $7,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Corey Are Now on Their Way to France, Where They Will Spend Their Honeymoon in a Chateau Once Owned by a King.

COREY AND HIS MILLION-DOLLAR BRIDE ON THE SEA

Sail for Europe, Where Honeymoon Will Be Spent at Their French Chateau.

NEW YORK, May 14.—William Ellis Corey, president of the Steel Trust, and his actress bride, Mabelle Gilman, are today upon the high seas, bound for France, where they will spend their honeymoon in the chateau on the outskirts of Paris, which Corey presented to his second love. Following the ceremony performed in the royal suite of the Hotel Gotham, shortly after midnight, Mr. and Mrs. Corey were hurried away to the pier of the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

They sailed shortly after 7 o'clock.

On the pier Corey, for a moment, flew into a rage with the newspapermen who dogged his steps until he ascended the gangplank. His wife's quiet words restored him, however, and he said good-by with a final benediction.

"I wish you and all the people of New York the best of good luck."

Two photographers, who were prepared to take a snapshot of the Coreys as they left their electric carriage, aroused the bridegroom's ire. He turned fiercely on them, threatening to break the cameras if they used them. Corey stopped the explosion and the couple entered the pier.

Sharply Turns on Reporters.

At the gangway a crowd of reporters was waiting. Corey turned on the group, saying:

"Well, gentlemen, what is it? What new horror do you spring upon me? It is useless to ask me to make any statement. I have nothing to say. You gentlemen should be ashamed to ask me to speak after all the unkind things that have been printed about me."

Again, by a touch on his arm, the bride recalled Corey to good humor. Turning to the newsgatherers he said, with a smile:

"What we appreciate the fond solicitude of you boys, we have nothing to say."

"Positively nothing," chimed in the bride. Then they ascended the gangplank. Corey stopped long enough to wish everyone "good luck," and then disappeared.

Son Stands by Mother.

But to cast a gloom over Corey's complete happiness, it is said, he received a telegram last night from his son, a nineteen-year-old boy whom he loves next to his new wife, declining to desert his mother in the first Mrs. Corey, to live with his father and Mrs. Corey No. 2.

The New York American states to-day that, with munificence befitting a Steel king, W. E. Corey, through his agents, transferred to Miss Gilman United States Steel bonds and other securities to the amount of $1,000,000.

This was the wedding present-in-chief of the bridegroom to his bride, and was in addition to the gifts he has bestowed on her in the shape of jewels.

The transfer was made in the office of the Morton Trust Company, where the securities are on deposit. The gift having been made before Miss Gilman became Mrs. Corey, the fortune becomes her absolute property.

Married Early To-day.

They were married early to-day in the Hotel Gotham, the ceremony being performed shortly after midnight by the Rev. J. S. Clark of the Bushwick Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn. They will go directly to Mr. Corey's Bumper home palace near Paris, the Chateau Ville Denis, where they will remain three months. As a gift to his bride, Mr. Corey deeded this chateau to Miss Gilman before their marriage.

It is persistently reported in Wall Street that Corey has quit his job as head of the Steel Trust.

The Rev. Mr. Clark accepted the office of officiating clergyman, which Bishop Burgess of Long Island and Rt. Rev. Fr. Laville of St. Patrick's Cathedral had declined, because Mr. Corey is divorced. Mr. Corey is an Episcopalian, Miss Gilman a Catholic.

Over Twenty Guests Present.

More than a score of guests witnessed the ceremony. On the official list, as authorized by Mr. Corey, appeared the names of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Corey, and his brother, A. A. Corey, Jr.

Representative officials of the Steel Corporation who were present were Elbert Gary and A. O. Dinkey. Mrs. Gary and Mrs. Dinkey accompanied their husbands. Following the ceremony and breakfast the wedding and immediately after Mr. and Mrs. Corey had replied to congratulations, they entered a touring car and sped to the Thirty-fourth Street Ferry, crossing the river to Hoboken, where they took possession of their elaborately fitted suite on the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Details of the wedding were scrupulously guarded until a short time before the supper was served. The name of the officiating clergyman was not made known definitely until late in the evening.

The official list of guests furnished by Mr. Corey is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dinkey, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Gary, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Riggs, the latter a sister of Mr. Corey, Mr. Kerr, Miss Frances Erskine Shaw, who has been Miss Gilman's companion; Mr. Woolsey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Mehan, Mrs. Gilman, Mr. Gayler, Mr. Mayer, Mr. Baker, Jr., and Mrs. A. A. Corey, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Corey, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Corey, Mrs. Slocum, Col. A. P. Peck, a cousin of Miss Gilman, and Mr. W. McCormick.

'BLACK SHEEP' OF LYNN FAMILY HELD AS THIEF

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy with a Long Record Arrested for Stealing Clothing.

TRACED TO A PAWNSHOP

Attired in the height of fashion, smiling and debonair, Allen Keating, the "black sheep" of a prominent Lynn family, who has been arrested five times in twenty-six times in Lynn for breaking and entering though he is not nineteen years old, was brought to the Lagrange Street Station from Lowell by the police officers Shipley and Linton to-day and locked up, charged with the larceny of goods valued at $456 from a Boston concern.

Traced by Boston Police.

Keating's arrest was due to persistent work on the part of the Boston officers for the past few days. On last Friday night the store of the M. & C. Skirt Company was entered during the night, and 295 yards of silk valued at $3,000 and a set of furs worth $150 were stolen.

The following day word was received at Boston that the silk goods were being offered for sale in pawn shops in Lynn and Lowell for a ridiculously low price by a young man who appeared anxious to get rid of it. Boston policemen shadowed the pawn shops. In Lowell yesterday Keating came along with a roll of goods under his arm and attempted to dispose of them. When arrested he gave the police information which led to the recovery of all the goods. He said that he had taken the goods to Miller street in his room at No. 7 Myrtle street in the West End, where he had brought them to Lynn and Lowell to dispose of them.

Old in Criminal Experience.

Though Keating is young in years, he is old in criminal experience, according to the police. A son of respectable and well-to-do parents living at No. 70 Centre street, Lynn, a few years, he showed a disposition toward wrongdoing.

Several times he was brought into court, but because of his good connections he managed to escape severe punishment.

Many times he managed to free himself of the charges made against him, but more recently he has served short reformatory sentences. He is known to the police of Lowell, where he has been detained several times. His relatives have given him up and will not aid him in the slightest degree. He is arraigned in the Municipal Court to-day.

ROGERS MAKES BOYHOOD CHUM AN ASSESSOR

FAIR HAVEN, May 14.—Colonel David L. Montague, the boyhood chum of Henry H. Rogers, is making arrangements for this town, Rogers's home and birthplace, through the influence of the millionaire, who made a trip here before going to Europe to straighten matters out and smooth the path.

Montague, who went to school with Rogers and later was in the grocery store here with him, wanted the $400 place, but David C. Shurtliffe had the job clinched.

On Mr. Rogers's arrival from the James Town Fair he hastened here, called the town leaders together and arranged for Shurtliffe and Albert L. Collins, the other candidate, to withdraw from the race, leaving the way clear.

As assessor, Colonel Montague will pass on the value of the beautiful estate of Mr. Rogers, his last resort and his shore factory.

WOMAN'S HEROISM SAVES GALE-SHATTERED SHIP

Captain's Wife Tells Her Story of Long Battle on Leaking Dismasted Bark Osberga.

Mrs. Kitty Hatfield, wife of Captain Arthur S. Hatfield of the British bark Osberga, which passed in from quarantine to-day, after a voyage of fifty-seven days, during which the vessel was dismasted and all but wrecked, left the bark to-day to visit friends in Boston.

As she came up the harbor every sailor that had heard of the hard ships through which the Osberga had passed on her way from Turk Islands, which she left on March 17, paid his respects to the captain's wife, whose deeds of heroism during the little vessel fought with the storm made it possible to save the ship.

Lived on Scraps of Food.

Mrs. Hatfield helped the men at the pumps, took her turn on watch and helped the crew in the rigging.

Had it not been for her work and for that of Mrs. Christian, the only other woman on board, it is almost certain that the voyage would have ended in complete disaster.

As it was, Lloyds gave up the bark as lost, and for two weeks all those on board lived on scraps of food and on short allowance of water.

"At one time the distress on the bark was so great that he most wanted to eat two cats and a terrier which were the vessel's mascots.

Mrs. Hatfield locked them in the cabin and urged the men on to greater endeavors, telling them that if they kept the vessel afloat for only a little while longer help would surely be picked up by some craft.

They were relieved by the schooner Mary L. Newhall, which they sighted off the Her boulder.

Mrs. Hatfield's Story.

Mrs. Hatfield to-day described some of the hardships through which the bark passed.

She said:

"It was the worst succession of gales I ever saw, and if the bark had not been strongly built and well found she would have foundered. The spars thundered down on the decks when they were dragged with seas that were constantly boarding us. Had one of the big sticks struck us as it fell from aloft it would have opened the deck and let in the water and sent us to the bottom.

"The first gale came up without warning and caught us with a big spread of canvas.

"When the squall hit the vessel she was hove down till the yardarms were in the water. A backstay parted under the tremendous strain, and the topgallant mast and mizzen topmast broke off and fell with all their rigging. The disaster was all the more serious in the face of the heavy weather, because the wreckage lay in a twisted mass into the rigging that prevented the working of the yards that had escaped.

Risked Lifes to Clear Wreckage.

"We squared the bark off before the wind after a deal of hard work, and ran her four days before the gale. It was feared the strain might have opened the Osberga's seams and let water into the hold. Nine tons of it, stored below the hatches. The pumps were sounded and considerable water was found.

"While some of the crew risked their lives to cut away the dangling rigging and swaying spars that constantly threatened to smash the remaining masts, the stewardess, Mrs. Tom Christian, of Barbadoes, volunteered to work the pumps with the others, and toiled for hours during the critical period of making temporary repairs.

Mrs. Christian proved herself a laborer hours in putting the gear in the best possible condition. The weather moderated and was calm for a few hours. We knew it was going to blow hard again, for the sky had that peculiar appearance sailors seldom mistake.

Chances Looked Black.

"This second gale soon broke and was of hurricane strength. We could not heave the Osberga to and had to let her scud. The heavy sea started the rigging anew and the spars began to fall, despite all we could do to prevent being further dismasted. All the sails were torn from their gaskets and the deck became almost wholly unmanageable. We were laboring in the heavy sea and our chances looked very black.

"It was two days before this gale blew itself out, and the Osberga was almost completely torn away aloft. Her bowsprit, however, was intact, for most of the bobstay had been parted or ripped out. The sea again came aboard, and we were having no opportunity to get the bark in a fully presentable shape when another spell of foul weather began. This next gale was accompanied by a fearful sea that nearly sent us under.

Dock Houses Wrecked.

"Before many hours we were shorn of our two spars remaining above the lower masts, the only small stick on end being the mizzen topmast. A section of the main topmast ripped through the top of the cabin house and smashed things badly. Luckily, no one was injured. Another spar went adrift above the galley, and its iron work fell with tremendous force into the cook's quarters, tearing out a side of the structure, into which the water poured in great volume.

"There was nothing left to us but hope and pray that the vessel might survive. Finally it moderated after we had experienced weeks of weather such as few vessels in the plight of the Osberga encounter and escape."

FREE AUTOIST FROM BLAME IN BOY'S DEATH

Without being called upon to interpose a defence, James P. Clark of Dorchester, who was in charge of an automobile which ran down and killed Benjamin Joffe, a boy, in Everett last Wednesday night, was found not guilty in the Malden District Court to-day, and was discharged by Judge Bruce.

The evidence introduced by the government showed that Clark was running the machine at six miles an hour, and that he tried to avoid running into the boy. It was also showed that Joffe ran into the street with George Morris and Thomas Day, two other boys.

"It is a good plan," Judge Bruce said, "to try on these cases in which the automobilist might have been at fault, but the evidence in this case shows that the boy himself was grossly careless and contributed to his own death."

The machine was owned by the Massachusetts Automobile Club.

The accident occurred at Everett avenue and the Revere Beach parkway.

FIGHT TOWN HALL AFTER WORK BEGINS

SKOWHEGAN, Me., May 14.—After fighting for three years among themselves, during which time they have held ten special town meetings, the citizens of Skowhegan by a very small majority have decided to erect a town building which shall also contain an opera house at a cost of $35,000. Although the work of laying the foundation commenced to-day, the whole thing may be held up by the injunction, the leaders of which oppose both the place and site. A petition signed by ten voters means another town meeting. The old town hall in the Coburn block was burned three years ago.

SHOW GIRL IN DEATH AUTO

Miss Mabel Fredericks of "Coming Thro' the Rye" company, who is prostrated with nervous shock resulting from witnessing killing of Engineer by motor car in which she was riding.

SHOW GIRLS' GAY AUTO RIDE ENDS IN DEATH

CHAUFFEUR HELD IN $6,000 ON THE CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER FOR KILLING ENGINEER.

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, May 14.—Suffering from nervous shock at witnessing the big automobile in which they were riding knock down and kill a man, Miss Mabel Fredericks of "Coming Thro' the Rye" company and a young woman friend, Miss Beside Hyman, are at the Newman Hotel in this city. They declare that they will never enter a machine again.

The victim of the car was John D. Currie, an engineer, who seemed to have some premonition that he might meet his death soon, as was disclosed by a paper that was found in one of his pockets. The paper contained this statement:

Victim Had Premonition.

"In case of my death, it is my desire to have these present immediately notify my brother, Daniel Currie, 133 Waverly road, Cape Breton, Sydney, Nova Scotia."

The two young women were the guests of Howard L. White, a wealthy young man of Taunton. The machine was being driven by Harry E. Williams. Williams was arrested, charged with manslaughter, and held in $6,000 bail for a hearing on May 21. Bail was furnished and the chauffeur was released.

When the accident occurred the car was moving along South Main street in the direction of East Providence. The two men and the two young women were the only ones in the machine. It is declared that they were rolling along at a moderate speed, Mr. White and his guests chatting pleasantly.

Stepped in Front of Machine.

Suddenly, a man stepped from the sidewalk, almost directly in front of the machine, according to Mr. White. The young women saw him and uttered a shriek. But the warning came too late, according to the statement of the chauffeur.

He said that he saw the man, but was unable to stop or divert the direction of the machine in time to prevent the accident.

Currie was caught by the machine and dragged some distance. In the meantime the young women were in a fainting condition, but with a great effort they controlled themselves. The machine came to a halt and White and the chauffeur got out and tried in every way possible to minister to the need of the dying man. The force of the impact of the car against the body had crushed him fearfully.

An ambulance soon reached up. The injured man was hurried to the hospital, but he breathed his last just before the doctors could even get him to the operating room.

All Taken by Police

No effort on the part of the owner and driver of the machine to get away was made. The two young women also stood their ground, wrought to a high tension of excitement because of the ordeal through which they had passed. When a policeman arrived they were all taken to the station house where Mr. White made a statement as to how the accident occurred.

This is Mr. White's statement:

"We were proceeding down South Main street at a moderate rate of speed, possibly nine or ten miles an hour, and when we neared Silver street there was a team to the right of us. Williams, who has always proved himself to be a very careful driver, blew the horn several times, as he usually does, when we saw a team in our path. Just as we were about to pass the vehicle, which was standing still, we saw the man make for the road. With all the possible energy that Williams could command he threw on the brakes and brought the machine to a stop a few feet from the scene of the accident."

The young women were then driven to their hotel, where it became necessary for them to have medical attendance.

2 MEN HURT AS TRAINS SMASH

LITTLETON, May 14.—By a collision of an express train bound from Troy, N. Y., to Boston, and a freight train on the Boston & Maine road, near Littleton station, last night, the engine and baggage car of the express were thrown from the tracks, the engine toppling over on the embankment into a mill pond. Both the engineer, William Phalen, of Somerville, and Fireman Prendergast, also of Somerville, were carried with the engine into the pond and sustained injuries of a slight nature. The passenger cars remained on the track and none of the passengers was hurt.

STEPMOTHER NOW HIS WIFE

NEWARK, N. J., May 14.—Ida E. Dickinson of this city, widow of Wilbur F. Dickinson, has married her stepson, William F. Dickinson. The elder Mr. Dickinson died five years ago.

By marrying her late husband's son Mrs. Dickinson becomes the daughter-in-law of her late husband, and is also, therefore, a sister-in-law as well as a stepmother to her present husband. As daughter-in-law of her late husband she can claim her present stepson-husband as her brother-in-law, and this makes her late husband and her present one rather distant relatives, although they were father and son.

BOY SLAYER DESERTED BY HIS PARENTS

Sidney Preble's Father and Mother Tell of His Cruelty and Vicious Ways.

NO REGRET FOR CRIME

BOWDOINHAM, Me., May 14.—Still showing no sign of real regret that he killed his fellow citizen, Sidney Bell, and completely abandoned by his father and mother for whom he professes to hold the tenderest love, fifteen-year-old Sydney J. Preble, the self-confessed boy slayer of Morris W. Heath, declared at Auburn jail today that he expects to spend the remainder of his life in State Prison.

"If I hadn't killed Morris he would have killed me," the youth continually asserts to his keepers.

"But it hurts the way my father and mother treat me. They haven't been to see me at all. I wonder why they don't want to see me any more?" he repeated again and again. And yet this boy murderer, behind the bars for a heinous crime that has startled all New England by its very atrocity, has not shed a tear since he turned on his chum on the old Bowdoinham road in the gathering twilight and killed him.

"I Won't Quit Now!"

"I thought it all over before I killed him, and I won't quit now," declared Preble today, as his eyes flashed.

The young murderer was taken to Auburn jail last night, where he is the youngest slayer incarcerated behind those old walls. He is held without bail for the August term of the Sagadahoc County Grand Jury.

In a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN, George F. Preble, father of the youthful prisoner, declared that his son was a degenerate.

"My son is an unnatural boy," declared the father. "I didn't suppose he would really kill anyone, but he has often threatened me and the neighbors when we would say or do something that he didn't like.

"I tried to bring him up to lead an upright and useful life, but he has persisted in wrongdoing. I nor any of my family shall have anything to do with the case. We did not attend the hearing.

"The boy is deceitful, and is not accountable for what he does. He is not a fool. It will have you understand, for he is bright in books and a great reader. He does not read cheap literature, and his deed can not be attributed to dime novel reading.

Heath's Father Breaks Down.

At the coroner's inquest under the direction of Coroner Flagg of Richmond, Myron F. Heath, father of the murdered boy, sobbingly told how he found the dead body of his son.

Young Preble is the most remarkable boy criminal Maine ever had. Small of his age, weighing scarcely more than seventy pounds, his mental development is above the average of his age.

He is an expert at figures, and those of his acquaintances who feared the aid for his criminal inclination admit his wizardry instincts.

MAINE BOY WHO SLEW CHUM

This is fifteen-year-old Sydney J. Preble, who does not regret killing his life-long friend, but mourns loss of his parents' love.

NO SURRENDER, SAY STRIKING LONGSHORE MEN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 14.—"Our fight for our wives and families has only begun. We will stay in this battle for a living wage scale until Christmas, and if necessary beyond that time. There is nothing to arbitrate. These steamship companies must come to us and ask us to go to work at 40 and 60 cents an hour."

President Patrick Connors, who is directing the great strike against the millionaire magnates of the transatlantic companies, made this statement today on behalf of his 20,000 fellow-workingmen to Herman Robinson, representing the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Robinson had told Connors that Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation, had suggested that a settlement might be effected. He put Connors's intimation.

The defiance of the steamship companies. In connection with Connors's statement, makes it appear at this time as though the struggle would be a long and bitter one. Vernon H. Brown of the Cunard line said:

"We are not going to give in. We are handling freight satisfactorily under the circumstances."

Despite this statement of Mr. Brown's, it is known that many of the big lines are absolutely crippled. Ships are sailing with half cargoes and many ballast on anything but schedule time and in some instances ships due to sail today are not relieved of their European cargoes.

OPERA HALTED BY CONRIED

The machinations of Herr Conried of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York are said to have prevented the performance of "La Boheme," advertised for last evening by the San Carlo Opera Company.

The first talking given the eager audience that all was not progressing smoothly was the lateness of the hour before the usual stir among the musicians' seats. The next was when Henry Russell, the director of the company, appeared before the curtain with an apology in which he told of the contract he had with the Ricordis which allowed him to give "La Boheme" except in cities where Conried's forces appeared.

According to his view of the matter, Mr. Russell proceeded to state, he could give "La Boheme" in Boston because Conried had come and gone and could not be obliged to produce it. But the German impresario and the Italian publisher united otherwise, and on Saturday a cable came from the latter ordering Conried forbidden to seal down Puccini's little masterpiece under pain of nearly unpleasant legal consequences.

SENATE SMOOTHES OVER STOCK GRAB

Placing the O. K. of the Commonwealth in an open violation of the law by the Boston Elevated Company, which had under-bought the Southbridge Gas and Electric Company, the Senate has by a 29-16 an act "authorizing the transfer of which actually took place [illegible] against the bill

SHOE TRUST BILL SAFELY PIGEONHOLED

In Committee's Hands for Third Reading, Waits Pleasure of Chairman Feiker.

The bill to regulate the leasing of machinery—popularly called the Shoe Machinery Bill—will be up for consideration in the Massachusetts Senate again whenever Senator William H. Feiker of Northampton concludes to get rid of Mr. Feiker, as chairman of the committee on Bills in the Third Reading, has had the bill under consideration ever since Thursday of last week, when the Senate ordered the measure to a third reading.

The bill then went to the Feiker Committee for "examination, correction and report."

Expecting that it would be reached on yesterday's calendar, crowds flocked to the Senate chamber and galleries to hear the closing debate.

Protest of Delay.

When the bill was reached, however, President Chappie of Salem hurriedly dismissed it with "in the hands of the committee of Bills in the Third Reading." He was about to pass on to the next item when Senator Alan C. Bullock of Lancaster, a friend of the bill, arose to say:

"I should like to know, Mr. President, how long this committee has had this bill, and just when we can expect a report."

Chairman Feiker: "And I should like to know, Mr. President, how long the committee can have the bill."

President Chappie: "The chair is of the opinion that the committee is not limited as to time."

Final Vote Put Off.

Senator Battrick moved that the rules be suspended in order that the bill might be disposed of without further delay.

President Chappie: "The bill has already been referred, under the rules. The motion is too late."

Senator Leavitt and Senator Hayes are the other members of the committee.

BUCKETSHOPS' KNELL RUNG

Clarice Vance's song, "I'm All In, Down and Out," was hummed in the bucketshops today by everybody from the board boy up to the boss, in the more pretentious places, and from the runner up to the man with the roll in the lesser resorts.

The following bucketshops and other shopping is on its way to Governor Guild, who will get it on his mind without delay. Opposition to the measure ceased completely out in the Senate yesterday, and without any discussion the bill was allowed to roll the bill was sent to the House to be enacted.

CHRIST'S MIRACLES CAN BE REPEATED, SAYS RECTOR

Dr. Elwood Worcester Cites Illustrations of Wonderful Cures by the Power of Faith.

"If Christ performed miracles by the power of God and the power of religion we now ought to do something in that line."

The Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester, rector of Emmanuel Church, prefaced his account of startling cures by mental power with this statement at a dinner of the Episcopalian Club last night.

Dr. Worcester told how, by the power of mental healing he had cured a Connecticut woman of violent insanity, brought on by somnambulism, and that he had also entirely cured a Boston man of confirmed habitual drunkenness.

"This woman from Connecticut," he declared, "had slept not little for three months, and it was a toss up whether she would be taken to an insane asylum or brought to Boston. She was brought to me.

Dragged to Class by Force.

"She was taken to one of our mental healing classes, being dragged there by force. She stood up throughout the meeting, and that night for the first time in three months she slept all night. That was the beginning of the cure. I saw her last week and she is entirely recovered.

"No attempt has ever been made to establish the miracles of Christ on a scientific basis," said Dr. Worcester, "I predict that within five years a book treating on the miracles of Christ will be published that will startle the world.

"There is a great spiritual movement passing over the country at this time," he said. "Everywhere people are reading and thinking and there is a general movement toward a deeper and better spiritual life. People are trying to get more out of their religion, and have come to know that they can actually get closer to the life of our Lord than they knew.

Gospel a Therapeutic Agent.

"We have a marvelous therapeutic agent," he continued, "pure and simple, in the gospel of the Lord. Physiologists and physicians not so long ago regarded religion as one of the predisposing causes of insanity. Maudsley's book is in point. I believe the very opposite is true. The character of Christ and his followers, calm, reasoning, is the type best able to resist insanity. One of the causes of the nervous deterioration of the present day, in fact, is irreligion."

He took up the matter of the miracles performed by Christ, and argued that if we have any authentic life of Christ they are true; if they are true, they can be repeated to-day.

HOLD DOCTOR IN MYSTERY OF GIRL'S DEATH

FITCHBURG, May 14.—Dr. Nathaniel Wellis, a leading medical practitioner and prominent in several secret societies, is under arrest, on a warrant charging him with the death of Ethel A. Ricker.

Miss Ricker, who was twenty-two years old, died yesterday, and the case was reported to the police. Inspector Bernard H. Flaherty made an investigation and notified Medical Examiner Herbert H. Lyons, who, after viewing the body and questioning relatives, reported the case to District Attorney George S. Taft.

After making further investigations to-night Inspector Flaherty swore out a warrant.

The police allege that before her death Miss Ricker made a confession, and that Dr. C. W. Burns and Dr. C. H. Gay were called to the house, but refused to have anything to do with the case. Dr. Wellis furnished $1,000 sureties for his appearance in court.

MILL OWNERS TO GRANT RAISE; AVERT STRIKE

NEW BEDFORD, May 14.—Although no official statement has yet been given out as to the action taken by the Manufacturers' Association on the demands of 25,000 operatives for a 10 per cent. raise, it is known that at a secret session yesterday the newly formally approved a letter which will be sent to the Textile Council at noon today, and this letter, according to high authority, will grant the desired increase and avert a gigantic strike in the mills here. It is further stated that the request of the operatives for a week's vacation in August was acted on affirmatively.

In speaking of the action of the association an influential member said: "If you say the manufacturers granted the full demand of the operatives, you will not be far from right.

"Two recent large dividends which some of the mills have granted have opened the eyes of the operatives to the fact that the local mills have large surpluses on hand.

In Spite of Cry of 'Public Opinion' Bill, Passes Luce Bill to Learn State's Wish.

PATTISON AN OBJECTOR

In spite of a warning from Capt. Pattison of Barnstable that the measure was "nothing but a public opinion bill," the House has passed to be engrossed the Luce bill providing that at the next State election the voters of Massachusetts shall be asked seven questions about direct nominations.

Yes or No, the voters of each district are to say whether they prefer to vote direct, or whether they like to name delegates who shall go to conventions for them and pick out party candidates for governor, congressman, governor's councilor, state senator, representative and all the rest.

Pattison of Barnstable thought that during the seven questions at one time would prove altogether too confusing for the "ordinary voter." Kiley of Lynn, proclaiming himself to be a voter of that type, intimated that the Barnstable gentleman was worrying himself needlessly. Fred Bolton of Boston, Brigham of Marlboro, Garelon of Newton and Grant of Lowell were among the Republicans who voted against referring the matter to the people. John Quinn of Boston, an independent Democrat, was also on that side.

The bill has attracted widespread attention. It asks seven questions, as against the four to be asked annually under the bill killed last week per order of Foss Lodge. Although it will cost at least as much to print these questions, the Direct Nominations bill was had sent by Speaker Cole of the Committee on Ways and Means. Favorable reported by the Luce Committee on Election Laws. It takes in various suggestions of the direct nomination as they appeared in a number of separate bills.

WANTED:

USE GAS THE MODERN FUEL

GAS STOVE DEMONSTRATORS.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

We are forming a NEW DEPARTMENT and require the services of women qualified to give instruction in the proper care and use of the GAS RANGE. Applicants, of experience only, may apply on Wednesday, at 9 A. M., at 24 West Street, Third Floor.

OUR IDEA OF SERVICE

The organizing of this CORPS OF DEMONSTRATORS is further evidence of our desire to give our customers the BEST POSSIBLE SERVICE. We mean by SERVICE not merely the supply of a certain commodity at a given price. Our idea of SERVICE is:

First—To furnish the BEST QUALITY of Gas at the LOWEST PRICE;

Second—To provide EVERY POSSIBLE FACILITY for showing our customers how to use Gas to the BEST ADVANTAGE.

APPLICATION OF THESE PRINCIPLES

These principles we have applied in a DEFINITE, PRACTICAL WAY. We have REDUCED THE PRICE OF GAS 15%, not to a few only, but to all our customers. At the same time we have IMPROVED THE QUALITY.

We have also established a medium for the INSTRUCTION of our customers in the use of Gas through our FORTY REPRESENTATIVES. Their EXPERT ADVICE on Gas matters has been so FREELY SOUGHT and has proved of SUCH BENEFIT to our customers that we have concluded to engage a number of GAS STOVE DEMONSTRATORS in order that this Department may be of still further service.

In subsequent notices we shall explain the method of placing this CORPS of DEMONSTRATORS at the disposal of our customers.

"Stole $800,000 on Lawyer's Advice."

WHO WAS THE LAWYER?

Astonishing Confession of Douglass Involves Attorney Who Was to Get $12,000 in $1,000,000 Plot.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 14.—That a prominent lawyer advised Boon to steal $1,000,000 to compel the Trust Company of America to condone the theft of a few hundred thousands is the startling feature of the confession said to have been made by William H. Douglass, former bank clerk for the company, who has pleaded guilty of larceny and is now awaiting sentence.

The important question which agitates the New York District Attorney's office and the bar and banking circles of the East is, "Who is the lawyer?"

The sum really stolen amounted to $800,000 in face value of the bonds.

According to his confession, he first took a few bonds, and, borrowing money on them, lost it in speculating. Afterward it is evident that he could not retrieve his losses, he says a lawyer was consulted, who advised that the only way out of the dilemma was to steal $1,000,000 worth of securities and turn them over to the lawyer, who might negotiate with the officials of the trust company for their return.

Douglass' understanding was that the lawyer expected to get $200,00 from the trust company for the restoration of the securities, which would have been sufficient to cover the amounts Douglass had already abstracted and lost.

Confesses to Thorne.

The report is that Oakleigh Thorne, president of the trust company, pointed out to Douglass that he could not expect his accomplices to stand by him, and that the best individual redress for him to pursue was to tell everything he knew.

Mr. Thorne hurried from his office yesterday and denied himself to all callers at his home, No. 299 Madison avenue. It was impossible to learn directly from the District Attorney's office or from the Trust Company, and when detected to have returned them for $200,000 and a promise of immunity.

According to the circumstantial story which seemed to come directly from Mr. Thorne himself, Douglass implicated not only Dennett, but the attorney, who became the guiding spirit of the trio. The prisoner's sworn statement is said to be in possession of the District Attorney.

Stole More to Cover Theft.

Douglass said he wanted money to go into business for himself, and was favorably impressed by Dennett's general business ability and apparent familiarity with the stock market. At his suggestion he and Dennett formed a business agreement, and he was asked to put up $2,500, a sum he did not have. Douglass said that after worrying a long time about how to get the money he stole bonds of sufficient value to enable Dennett to operate in the cotton market. They won, and their initial success led to further and greater crimes.

The success was short lived and, Douglass declared, he used more bonds to cover their losses and to raise funds to cover up the original theft.

Douglass declared Dennett told him this man had gone over the ground carefully and decided a small theft would get the worst of it while a big thief might not fare badly at all. This reasoning induced Douglass to resolve to steal $1,000,000 worth of bonds to be turned over to Dennett, who in turn was to place them with the lawyer.

Would Leave $12,000 for Lawyer.

According to what Dennett told Douglass, this lawyer is alleged to have said he could then go to see Comptroller Oakleigh Thorne and tell him of the theft. In the first place, the demand was to be made that Douglass be allowed to resign so no suspicion would be directed against him, and Thorne would then be told that if he paid $200,000 he would get back the $1,000,000 worth of bonds. If possible, the trust company was to be made to pay $225,000 for the securities.

Of this amount $160,000 would have to be spent in recovering the bonds already stolen, which would be returned with the others that were to be taken. This would leave about $40,000, of which the lawyer was to get $12,000 as his fee.

Douglass said he had started to follow the advice Dennett gave him as coming from a lawyer when the thefts were discovered and he was arrested. Dennett is alleged to have telephoned to the lawyer whenhe learned of Douglass's arrest, and to have received instructions to remain where he was, so the lawyer's connection with the affair would not be discovered.

Dennett's trial is fixed for Tuesday.

CHEMISTS SEEK TO CLEAR BABY POISON MYSTERY

SANDWICH, N. H., May 14.—The supposed death by poison of little Jewell Burnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Burnham, of Centre Sandwich, is expected to be partly cleared up by the report from Dartmouth College of the analysis of the viscera who had been called had done of his death.

Little Jewell, who was but five years old, died Wednesday, April 24, after two physicians who had been called had done all possible, symptoms of poisoning were found and Medical Examiner Hodson of Centre Sanbpen, with Drs. Hoag and Boyer, who attended the child, performed an autopsy.

A report from the chemists is expected every day. In the meantime County Attorney Hill of North Conway, whose office Hodlos was called to the case by the medical examiner, is investigating the matter.

Early in April Mrs. Burnham took Jewell to an aunt in Centre Harbor to stay until his mother's health improved. There are two younger children. Wesley and Sylvia, but they were kept in practice.

Jewell's aunt brought him home Sunday, April 21. The next day Dr. Hoag called, went to school and the next morning when he arose he was not well himself. Shortly after breakfast he complained of sore throat, and this was attended by digestive troubles.

Dr. Albert Hoag of Centre Sandwich was summoned. During the afternoon the little fellow went into convulsions, and Dr. Hoag called in Dr. Boyer of North Sandwich for consultation. When the latter arrived, he found the boy much better, and his illness was attributed to some childish indiscretion.

The following morning he showed some further signs of improvement, but in a few hours he began to sink rapidly, and died shortly after the doctors arrived.

Mrs. Burnham was asked if the child could have secured accidentally any poisign substance to eat. "I do not understand how he could," she replied, "but at the time I was sick in bed and I cannot tell for certain. He was not, however, a boy who would pick up anything without asking his father or me about it. I do not believe, if it is shown he was poisoned, that he could have eaten the substance unless he was specifically told to by some older person."

GIGANTIC WAR OF STEAMSHIPS AFTER MERGER?

New Haven Road Plans Rival Service to Morse Lines Between Boston and South.

That a line of steamships to run between Boston and Southern points, to south at Fall River, New Bedford and New York, in opposition to the Morse lines, is part of the gigantic plan which President Mellen of the New Haven road has begun carrying through, by the acquisition of the Boston & Maine railroad, is the latest development of the proposed merger.

The new line will be designed particularly for the benefit of the New England manufacturers, in order that they may get more coal and raw materials quicker and cheaper than at present.

The steamers will run to Newport News, Savannah and other Southern points, and possibly to Cuba.

The establishment of this line means that President Mellen intends to force the fighting with Morse, and that he not only intends to deprive him of the traffic between Boston and points north, but that he intends to fight for the entire control of the coastwise steamship traffic.

Morse at present controls the Clyde line, which runs from New York to Gulf points, the Mallory line, which runs to Southern points, and the Ward line, which also runs to Southern points as far as Cuba. He also controls the Eastern Steamship Company and the Metropolitan line, which runs from Boston to New York.

The Merchants & Miners' line, which runs to Southern points from this port, is now practically in the control of interests favorable to the New Haven road.

Acquires Pratt B. & M. Stock.

The New Haven road has acquired 6,000 shares of Boston & Maine stock held by the Robert Pratt estate of New York, in addition to the 25.72% shares obtained from the New York Central and the American Express Company through Lewis Cass Ledyard, who is prominently supporting President Mellen in his campaign.

It is planned at the annual meeting of the Boston & Maine directors, next October, it is said, to relieve Tuttle of the presidency of the Boston & Maine and place him in an advisory capacity, possibly chairman of the board of directors.

Only directors favorable to the New York, New Haven & Hartford will be retained on the board of directors, it is said, and the board will be made up of Boston men as nearly as possible.

Fearing that the Canadian systems will ultimately get possession of the intervening territory now held by the Boston & Maine system, President Mellen plans to build an independent railroad line to the lakes, it is said. Traffic agreements will then be made with the Canadian systems so that the products of the great grain fields will be handled at Boston.

Plans to Get Canadian Business.

From St. John, N. B., comes the report that the New York, New Haven & Hartford road is trying to get into the maritime provinces. Having acquired the Boston & Maine line, which controls the Maine Central and the Washington County roads, the New York, New Haven & Hartford people have thus a line from Calais and Vanceboro to Boston.

The company will enter into competition with the owners of the Eastern Steamship line, the maritime provinces business railroad to the border and by steamship, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford interests may soon have a line of steamers running to St. John.

A few weeks ago efforts of the New York, New Haven & Hartford to purchase the Dominion Atlantic Railway were reported. The Canadian Pacific Railroad owns the railway from Vanceboro into New Brunswick, and, it is also reported, has secured control of the New Brunswick Southern, between St. Stephen and St. John.

WARFIELD IS COMING.

David Warfield is coming, and in "The Music Master" again. Last Fall he stayed here four weeks, but the demand for seats was so great that he gave an implied promise that he would return before the season was over. He will open a special season at the Majestic Theatre on June 2.

ICE OUT OF MOOSEHEAD.

PORTLAND, Me., May 14.—The ice went out of Moosehead Lake yesterday, and it is entirely clear. Steamers are making trips to all points.

K. OF C. MUST PUT CHARACTER ABOVE NUMBERS, DECLARES DEPUTY BUCKLEY

Special to the Boston American.

LAWRENCE, May 14.—Eulogizing the Knights of Columbus order as international in its scope and peerless as a fraternal insurance organization, State Deputy Daniel F. Buckley, in an impassioned address to the Massachusetts State Council, here to-day, declared that the members must put character of membership above mere numbers and legislate wisely for the order.

Mr. Buckley said, in part:

"We, of Massachusetts, have a special reason to be proud of the magnificent growth of the Knights of Columbus. It is conceded that we are the representative Catholic organization, and the future of our order looks most promising. It is a pleasure for me to report that 1906 was the banner year in the history of the order. There were 109 councils instituted, and the widows and orphans of our deceased members received from the death benefit fund $358,140.20. The total amount paid to beneficiaries since organization amounts to $2,087,000.

Big Increase in State.

"The total membership of the order on May 1, 1907, as given by the national secretary, was 178,766. An increase in membership during the year of 23,962. Our insurance funds on January 1, 1907, as reported by the national secretary, are $1,820,902.78, a net increase during the year of $320,021.79.

There has been an unusual increase in the membership in Massachusetts during the past year.

"It is to the credit of Massachusetts that we have 11,009 insurance members of the total number in the order, 58,497. The insurance member is less likely to allow his beneficiary, his family, to be impoverished, and dearest, his beneficiary, is interested. I am much pleased to report to this convention that the number of suspensions from the order has been greatly lessened during the past year.

"Our support of the Charity Bureau has brought much credit to the order of the Knights of Columbus throughout the country. We should do our full duty as a Catholic organization in charity work, and especially to safeguard so far as it is within our power, the faith of the Catholic children in the care of State and municipal authorities. I recommend that we continue the policy of appointing representatives of the State council to serve in this connection with the priests appointed by the Archbishop.

Character Above Members.

"At the last annual meeting of the State Council it was voted that a committee of five be appointed by the State Deputy to raise funds necessary to endow a free room at Carney Hospital for the members of the order. A committee was appointed with Brother Daniel L. Preudergast, who has already done such efficient work for the hospital, as its chairman. The committee has carefully considered the matter.

"I urge upon the Grand Knights their duty in regard to applicants for membership. The Knights of Columbus is not an exclusive organization, except as regards to character. Our order demands that applicants be practical Catholics, and of good moral character. We cannot afford to lower the tone of our organization. Numerical strength is good, a successful insurance organization is commendable, but above all things we must maintain character.

"It is pleasant for me to commend the good work of Boston Chapter. The union of the many councils in Greater Boston, numbering over fifty, ought to, if care and good judgment is needed, be of benefit to the entire order of the State. The recent suggests of the chapter to the St. Mary's Infant Asylum entertainment, netting, I am informed, about $3,000 ever and above the usual return, was a most commendable work.

SNAPSHOT MAN HELPS OUT ON VACATION CASH

Eight of Lucky Ten Caught by Camera for Sunday American Get $10.

TWO STILL UNIDENTIFIED

The Snapshot Man is helping pay for some Summer vacations this week.

He is buying a silk skirt for a young woman.

He is starting a bank account for another girl.

He is purchasing a lot of finery for a Norwood woman. And, in on way or another, he is spending ten dollars here and ten dollars there for the "Snapshot Ten."

The Snapshot Man doesn't mean that he is literally buying these things himself. The young woman who is starting a bank account will deposit the money herself. The other young woman, who is to get a silk skirt, will attend to that transaction herself. The vacation people will do their own flaunting.

How $10 Prizes Are to Be Spent.

The Snapshot Man means that these are some of the uses to which winners of the Snapshot pictures in last Sunday's issue of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN intend to put their ten-dollar prizes.

Eight of the ten pictures are already identified. The Snapshot Man had many callers yesterday. After the neat originals had been sorted out, it was found that eight of the callers were real originals of eight different pictures, as published and numbered in Sunday paper. Their names, numbers and addresses are:

No. 1—Fireman William F. Bowers of Protective 1, Purchase street, lives at No. 2 Columbia terrace, Dorchester.

No. 2—Mrs. Anna H. Meacom, No. 111 Winthrop road, Brookline.

No. 3—Mrs. Anna M. Tilton, Norwood, Mass.

No. 5—Miss Alice A. Stone, Hotel Belvedere, city.

No. 7—William Jenney, U. S. N. (retired), The Alonzo, Hancock street, Everett.

No. 8—Mail Collector Fred A. Hildreth of Boston postoffice lives at 50 Gould avenue, Malden.

No. 9—Theodore Raesias, No. 1,038 Washington street, city.

No. 10—Miss Mary Marmaud, No. 41 Wolcott street, Dorchester.

The heroes only two persons unidentified on last Sunday's group, numbers four and six.

Comes Handily for Fireman.

The Snapshot Man came in very handy for Fireman Bowers. "I leave next Sunday on my vacation," said Bowers. "I won't have any trouble placing my ten dollars. I was on my way to the Mason-street headquarters to pay my benefit assessment when I was caught by the snapshot camera. I didn't expect to get back my money so promptly."

Miss Alice A. Stone, No. 5, in the group, was walking down Tremont street with two girl chums when she was snapped. Her lunch showed plainly in the picture.

"I was lucky to be picked out for the prize picture instead of one of the other girls," said Miss Stone. "I wonder how that was?"

"Why," said the Snapshot Man solemnly, "we took the best looking one, of course."

"O, yes," said Miss Stone, "well, do you know what I'm going to do with my ten dollars. I'm going to donate it to an Old Ladies' Home."

Having thus given the Snapshot Man a Roland for his Oliver, Miss Stone started out. As she reached the door she turned around and said demurely, "On second thought, I guess the old ladies will have to wait. I am going to buy a new silk skirt that I have had my eye on lately."

To Start Bank Account.

Miss Mary Marmaud of Dorchester, No. 10 in the line, came in with her papa and mamma. Asked what she was going to do with the money she hesitated a minute.

"Good chance to start that bank account you've been telling us about," said papa.

"I guess I will," allowed Miss Marmaud, whereat papa nodded approvingly.

Then they planned what to do with the money was to go for something useful—for clothes, for house furniture, for well-deserved vacation, for a nest-egg fund.

Miss Mary expressed it nicely—"Well, I think I'll have to buy myself a little something to remember the Snapshot Man by."

Wasn't that a pleasant way to put it?

The Snapshot Man will be out this week for his third trip. He will announce his coming beforehand. If he "snaps" you it may mean ten dollars for you.

Read the BOSTON AMERICAN every day to learn about him.

Then watch out.

IF YOUR OWN HUSBAND ADOPTED A PRETTY GIRL, WOULD YOU LIKE IT?

LABOR NEWS

UNITED TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Boston Cement and Asphalt Workers' Union has secured the eight-hour work-day.

The union was practically the only one in the building trades which worked nine-hour day. The mechanics and lathers' branches secured five cents an hour wage increase, making the new rate forty and thirty-seven cents an hour respectively. The laborers did not get an advance in their hourly wage rate, which will continue at twenty-five cents an hour.

RAISE FOR MACHINE MEN.

Boston Wharf and Bridge Builders' Union last night reported that every firm now signed its new wage agreement, granting increases of fifty and twenty-five cents a day to the tool and machine men respectively.

MACHINISTS ACCEPT.

The Boston & Maine Railroad machinists have accepted by referendum vote the wage increase of two cents an hour offered by the road as a compromise to the men's demand for ten cents an hour request.

LABOR NOTES.

William J. Dougherty of Pittsburg, general organizer of blacksmiths and blacksmiths' helpers, is now addressed the members of Boston Blacksmiths' Helpers' Union No. 241 on the conditions of the craft throughout the country.

Business Agent C. N. Kimball reported at Shop and Mill Hands' Union No. 3,410 last night that one more firm has signed the new wage agreement.

Cloak and Cloak Makers' Union has elected Judge Goldberg, Charles Jacobson and Nathan Miller as delegates to the convention of the International Garment Workers to be held at Baltimore June 3.

The question of whether to refuse the janitors employed by the city sewer department is said Saturday last holidays. In contravention to the constitution of the union, was last night referred by Bricklayers' Union No. 3 to the executive committee of affiliated unions in this craft for consideration and decision.

A minimum wage of $3 for brass molders and $2.75 a day for brass workers is one of the demands made by the Brass Molders' and Brass Workers' Union of New England Brotherhood of Brass Molders and Brass Coremakers' Union No. 1 at its meeting.

BANISH DISTRICT SCHOOLS IN AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Me., May 14.—The city voted to do away with the district system of public schools and organize schools of the city under one head.

AUSTRIA BUYS LAKE BOATS.

VIENNA, Austria, May 14.—Lake & Company of Bridgeport, Ct., are to construct the first submarine boats for the Austrian navy. The hulls of the little crafts will be built at Pola, Austria's greatest naval station, under the personal supervision of Mr. Lake, inventor of the boats.

WEALTHY WIFE ATTACKS THIS STRANGE PACT

St. Albans, Vt., Stirred by Sensational Suit Brought By Mrs. Isabel Valle Austen.

WOULD ANNUL ADOPTION

Special to the Boston American.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 14.—Seeking to have the adoption of pretty Miss Julia Curtis Reynolds, a graduate of the St. Albans High School and a former school teacher at Woodstock, by her husband, George Austen, a wealthy business and clubman, annulled, Mrs. Isabel Valle Austen has applied to the Superior Court. She made similar application before Judge Kelton in the Probate Court a short time ago, but he dismissed the case, as it does not come within his jurisdiction. Mrs. Austen, who lives in New York, has a private fortune of several hundred thousand dollars.

Society is deeply interested in the suit, because of the startling revelations which Mrs. Austen declares she will make.

Incidentally Mrs. Austen has sued her husband for divorce and obtained an order from Judge Amend of the Supreme Court of New York which directed that a summons be mailed to Mr. Austen at the Hotel Des Palmes, Palermo, Italy.

As a matter of fact Mr. Austen and his adopted daughter are living in a beautiful home in this city while Mr. Austen purchased last summer and presented to Miss Reynold's mother.

Mrs. Austen declared that Miss Reynolds was adopted without her knowledge, and she is going to take advantage of the Vermont law which says that an adoption by a married man is illegal unless sanctioned by his wife.

HUNT RECTOR AND GIRL IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—On the strength of an urgent request from New York, the police last night began secret search here for Jere Knode Cooke, the unfrocked rector of St. George's Church, Hempstead, and Florena Whaley, the sixteen-year-old girl with whom he eloped.

Almost the entire Central Office force of detectives are making a thorough examination of the small hotels in the northern part of the city. A rigorous house to house search was made by the police of the great boarding house section that extends for squares around the University of Pennsylvania.

It is certain that the minister and the girl were in this city on Wednesday. On that night he is supposed to have gone to the Richard Y. M. C. A. and there one of the railroad men there to write a letter for him to Mrs. Whaley, the girl's grandmother, at Hempstead.

According to the information received by the police, the letter was signed merely by Cooke's initials, "J. K. C.," and read as follows:

"We have arrived safe. Have cut hand and now getting some one else to write."

DENIES MARRIAGE TO MISS SCHENCK

NEWPORT, R. I., May 14.—Charles H. Wilson, the well known whip and manager of the show stables of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, cables from abroad a denial of the report of his recent marriage to Miss Schenck, a Norfolk (Va.) beauty.

Mr. Wilson, who is at Red Hill farm, Ekgmere, London, where Mr. Vanderbilt's horses are being trained for the International horse show in London in June, says there is no foundation whatever for the story.

TO TRAMP 3,000 MILES TO FRISCO

Boys Leave Boston, Pistols Flapping on Their Hips, Garbed in Cowboy Style, to Win Wager.

Word was received to-day from the three Worcester young men who left Boston yesterday upon a 3,000 mile walk to San Francisco.

A message sent back by Bert Brown of No. 12 Barbour street, Walter H. Barber of No. 28 Dale street and Arthur Kneil of No. 10 Oak avenue told their friends that the walking is good and that they are already ahead of their schedule.

Just before leaving Boston, Brown made the following statement in explanation of the long walk: "I am employed by the Boston Elevated, and have always been interested in long distance walking. A prominent Boston business man, who is a friend of mine, got into an argument with another man about my ability to walk long distances. My friend finally said he was willing to bet a large sum that I could walk to Frisco in five months. Two other men took him up, so that's why we're on our way.

"Barber and Kneil said they'd like to go with me, so I'm going to have company.

"One of the conditions of the walk is that we are to start out without a cent and must not beg along the route. We will not be allowed to work for money or food. To offset this we are going to sell little photographs of ourselves on the way to pay expenses.

"In order to make Frisco before October 12 we must average twenty-two miles a day. It is our intention to walk ten hours every day when the weather permits. We will keep as far ahead of our schedule as possible.

"We are not allowed to ride. As far as possible we will walk on highways, but when that is impossible we will take to the railroad track. We have a typewritten list of the towns we are to pass through in order, and the distance they are apart, to guide us."

COULDN'T BOSS DAUGHTER OF TOM JOHNSON

Sacrificed Artist-Bridegroom When He Forbade Her Return to Footlights.

ANGER ENDS HONEYMOON

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CLEVELAND, O., May 14.—Incompatibility of temperament and the bride's determination to return to the stage are assigned as the causes for the separation of Sig. Federico Mariani and his wife, formerly Miss Bessie Johnson, daughter of Mayor Tom L. Johnson.

Intimates of the Johnsons say that trouble began on the honeymoon; that Mariani, with the disposition to dominate that generally characterizes foreigners who win American brides, was determined, almost from the very start, to have absolute control over his wife. His ward he wanted to be law. Mrs. Mariani had been trained to independence, a trait also inherited from her father, and she would not submit to a master.

Various petty frictions, it is said, grew into troubles of some magnitude, the climax coming, it is asserted, when Mrs. Mariani declared that she intended to return to the stage when she had completed the play upon which she has been working for six months, and upon which her husband collaborated before the marriage.

Mariani haughtily and positively forbade her even to contemplate such a move. Separation followed.

Mr. Johnson is said to have opposed the match and to have given his consent only in answer to his daughter's pleading.

It was announced to-day that Mrs. Mariani would resume study and work upon her play and return to the stage, possibly appearing in her own play next season.

MAY PARTY BY A. O. H.

FULL DISCLOSURE ON BONANZA BELT

COMPANY CLAIMS

- 6 to 12 Foot Sulphide Vein
- 9% Copper Ore
- Smelter Reports
- Vouchers of Smelter Cash Returns
- Development Work, 3 Miles
- Directors Who Direct
- Assurance of Net Earnings of $1,200,000

Vouchers which show Actual Operations are seldom open to public inspection. The reports from the Smelting Companies which extract the copper from the ores and pay for it exhibit the cash returns from output and are the vouchers of a mining company. A prospectus is designed to tell the prospects, the anticipations of the corporation. The public should know not only what is going to be, but what is. Earnings of to-day indicate profits of to-morrow.

Has the Bonanza Belt Company told the public what is?

Subscriptions, inquiries and applications show that the public not only appreciate, but universally acknowledge that the Bonanza Belt Copper Comany has opened itself to public inspection and verification, beginning with the physical condition of its mines and ending with vouchers showing the method of conducting—and cash returns from—its business. It is the one mining corporation responding to the modern cry for corporate publicity.

SMELTER REPORTS

Give details of ore shipments to the smelting companies, contents in Copper, Silver, Lime and Iron, value of product, and expense of reduction. They will be furnished upon application.

PROSPECTUS

And maps exhibit the details of an active mining business. They strip the mines to eye and understanding. Engineers' reports tell the good and the bad. Directors' list includes bankers, copper experts, and substantial business and professional men. They will be furnished on application.

VOUCHERS

In the form of duplicates of checks, statement of tons of ore thereby paid for, drawn to the order of the company, show cash payments. They will be furnished on application.

He who reads will comprehend the intrinsic value and future possibilities of an investment in the shares of this company.

Subscription books close June 1st.

The offer of the company to sell 100,000 shares at $5 per share will be executed as outlined in the public offer of last week.

'SILENCE' COST BOYS' FREEDOM

By Boston American Leased Wire.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14.—The first middlemen battalion gave Lieutenant-Commander McVay the "silence" yesterday, and as a result the whole battalion is under nominal arrest to-day. In addition, they had a little unwelcome taste of "silence" themselves.

Giving an unpopular officer the "silence" is a practice as old as the academy itself. Yesterday, when the eight hundred middies went to the mess hall for dinner, they kept absolute silence. No word was spoken. The silence was oppressive. At the end of two hours Lieutenant-Commander McVay dismissed the boys. Then he reported them, and the order came that they could be confined in barracks indefinitely.

AGED MAN UNHURT IN 50-FOOT PLUNGE

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 14.—In a runaway accident, during which the horse plunged over a fifty-foot embankment, killing them with him, two aged men, James Jones, eighty-three, of Fayette, and Herbert Keith of Livermore Falls, escaped without a scratch and led their horse home uninjured also. The carriage was smashed to kindling wood.

FEAR BIG HAVANA STRIKE.

HAVANA, May 14.—The steamship lines here are threatened with a strike similar to that which has caused a tie-up of shipping in New York Harbor. All the longshoremen have threatened to quit work, alleging that the companies have failed to comply with the rate agreement.

MRS. GOULD FIGHTS FOR VINDICATION

Declare Members of Millionaire's Family Have Cast Aspersions on Her Name.

SUES FOR SEPARATION

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The purpose of the suit for separation to be brought by Mrs. Howard Gould, formerly Katherine Clemmons, will be vindication for the wife of the millionaire, it was announced to-day. Mrs. Gould declares that aspersions have been cast upon her by members of the Gould family and she feels that the only way to end an unhappy situation is by a trial in court.

By this means she hopes to vindicate herself and set at rest the reports that have been circulated. She has brought suit for separation instead of divorce, in order to maintain her rights to the estate of her husband, and in her claim for alimony she will demand a sum which will undoubtedly cause a vigorous fight on the part of her husband.

The separation of the Howard Goulds has already become effective. Mrs. Gould makes her home at the St. Regis, and her husband resides at the Waldorf-Astoria. Neither of them would discuss the case to-day.

OFFER BUFFALO BILL $25,000 FOR STORIES ABOUT MRS. GOULD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

DENVER, Colo., May 14.—About a month ago Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," was called to Denver and offered first $10,000, and later $25,000, if he would tell Howard Gould's agents all he knew of the early life of Gould's wife. The story has just become known through some of his old comrades in whom he confided.

Colonel Cody knew Mrs. Gould when she was Katherine Clemmons and traveled with his show, though she was not a part of it. The agents asked him if he ever heard anything about Katherine Clemmons and "Big Hawker" fleeing a Frenchman in Italy out of a large sum of money. The veteran scout's answer was:

"You'll have to see my lawyers. You see," he added, "I have a claim for $60,000 against Mrs. Howard Gould for money due me for her stage education and for financing her productions before her marriage."

This is alleged to be not the only attempt Howard Gould has made in the West to get inside information about the early life of the woman he married. At present he has detectives in California searching the records and trying to find out all they can about her.

EATS 16,384 PEAS IN WAGER

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—John Lotion is believed to possess the most voracious appetite of any man living. Within the past few days he has consumed a meal at which a van horse would have jibbed in despair.

The contest, which has just concluded, lasted fourteen days.

During the first week the man simply swallowed them like pills, in the dry state; afterward they were steeped and boiled. On the tenth day the number was 1,064, on the eleventh 2,048, on the twelfth 4,096, on the thirteenth 8,192 and on the fourteenth 16,384.

MAY SUTTON, FAMOUS WOMAN TENNIS PLAYER, SERVING

This picture of the former woman champion from California is from a snapshot photograph by BOSTON AMERICAN photographer taken at Longwood, where Miss Sutton is playing a remarkably fast game in the mixed doubles tournament. The finals are played to-day.

CROWDS TO SEE MISS SUTTON'S PLAY IN FINALS

Remarkably Fast Game of the California Woman Tennis Expert Creates Enthusiasm.

Miss May Sutton of California, the young woman whose electric tennis playing kept the gallery applauding at the Longwood courts yesterday, comes onto the courts late this afternoon with H. H. Whitman, her playing partner, to play the finals against Miss Rotch and N. Niles for the prizes in the mixed doubles tournament of the Longwood Cricket Club.

Another large gallery is expected to-day. The woman spectators envy Miss Sutton particularly for her dashing and nervy style of game. In the semi-finals yesterday, when she and Mr. Whitman beat Miss Thorndike and P. Sullowav, Miss Sutton displayed remarkable volleying and driving. She played up to the net or back court with equal facility. One of her lightning returns nearly knocked Miss Thorndike over.

Miss Sutton is thoroughly independent in her playing, not relying on her masculine partner as much as some feminine players are wont to do in mixed play.

Her game, though the tournament has been consistently brilliant. She is in splendid physical condition, and, from the gallery standpoint, seems in fine way to regain the tennis laurels she lost last season.

The outcome of the finals, of course, is not anticipated beyond the ordinary speculation, which backs its favorite players. But it is conceded that Miss Rotch and Mr. Niles will have to put up lively tennis this afternoon to take the prizes from Miss Sutton and her partner.

SCHOOL ALUMNI BANQUET.

BERWIN OUT FOR MAYOR IF FITZ SAYS YES

"Nestor of Navarre" Launches Boomlet but Hates to Offend His Honor.

Alderman William Berwin, the "Nestor of the Navarre," has launched a boomlet for himself for Mayor of Boston. He was accused of it by Alderman Curley and did not deny the accusation—blushing under it instead. Alderman Berwin will be a candidate if he can get the Republican nomination and if he can receive assurances from Mayor Fitzgerald that his candidacy will not be offensive to the latter.

Alderman Berwin, who lives in Ward 10 and votes in Ward 12, says that the Mayor is a deep social and personal friend of his, has been in fact for years. He does not like to offend His Honor. When he inquired of a City Hall scribe what would be a good platform to run on, the scribe told him to make it just simply this:

"Where did he get it?"

But Alderman Berwin does not like to offend the Mayor and declined the platform. Yesterday his campaign was beginning. In the morning he forgot that he was supposed to represent Wards 12 and 17 in the Board of Aldermen, and sent notices out to "every housekeeper, citizen and real estate owner in Ward 10 and 12, telling them that if Jim Doyle did not pay proper attentions to the pavements of the streets, or if Dan Gillespie did not remove their ashes and refuse on time, to "notify Berwin and he'll attend to it."

In the afternoon he delivered a stirring speech on the city's finances in the Board of Aldermen, not that he expected the order, which was the excuse for the speech, to pass, he said, but to let the people know his views. The board took him at his word. The order did not pass, but was referred to the committee on public improvements—the graveyard of orders, where Alderman Berwin himself, as chairman of the committee, has assisted in interring many.

HANGED IN EFFIGY.

BREWER, Me., May 14.—Charles W. Perkins, principal of the High School and superisor of the public schools, was hanged in effigy from the tower of the high school building. The police department and the school board, as well as Mr. Perkins, are vainly seeking the guilty parties.

Three Aldermen Desert Market Invaders Before Start for New York.

WILL VISIT THE EXPOSITION

The City Council joint special Committee on Markets leaves on the Bay State Limited at 3 o'clock this afternoon for a five days' visit to the markets and other points of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Some will make a side trip to the Jamestown Exposition.

The party will be fifteen strong—going Clerk of Committees John F. Dever will go along to handle the dough bag. To prevent desertions at New York or other points the "dough" will be distributed daily—not in lump sums.

Assistant City Messenger Tim Mooney goes along as sergeant-at-arms. The others in the party (when it starts) will be Aldermen Baldwin, Bettis, Woods and Whelton, Councilmen McGonagle, Foley, Joyce, Green, Madden, Bagley and Purcell, Superintendent of Markets McKay and Colonel W. H. Hodges and Julius B. Dillaway, official reporters.

Three Desert Party.

Three members of the committee became afflicted with "cold feet" and decided not to go. They are Aldermen Bettis and Bell, G. O. A. members of the board, and Councilman Pierce, reformer, of Ward 12.

To-night at 9 o'clock the party arrives in New York, where those members desiring to sleep will stop at the New Marlboro. To-night and to-morrow will be spent in visiting the markets, and some other points of interest in Gotham, the party leaving for Philadelphia to-morrow night, arriving there at 8 o'clock and putting up at the Continental. Thursday will be spent in Hogtown, and the party will arrive in Baltimore about 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Will "Rest" on Sunday.

Those left of the party by this time will leave Baltimore at 6 o'clock Friday night and will arrive in Washington an hour later, where the Arlington Hotel will be invaded by the side entrance. Saturday and Sunday will be spent in the Capital city, the party "resting" Sunday, as the official itinerary describes it, and taking the Federal Express for Boston Sunday night, arriving here at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

While the committee is away a real estate expert will be working on market rental values here in Boston, and the committee's report will be that of the expert.

DROPS DYING IN HIS PULPIT

ATLANTA, Ga., May 14.—"Prepare to meet thy God," cried the Rev. W. T. Rawe, as he closed a revival sermon at McDonald Street Baptist Church. Hardly had he uttered the sentence when he fell headlong on the floor of the pulpit.

Men rushed to his side and found him barely alive. He was removed to a hospital, where physicians say he is likely to die from heart disease due to his fervor in the revival services.

The Cheapest Form of Health Insurance

YOU can buy Health Insurance now.

Several good "Accident" Companies sell it.

Sixty dollars per year will bring you $25 per week, for every week you are sick.

But, your time alone may be worth far more than that.

And $200 per week might not pay for your suffering.

That's why "Cascarets" Insurance, which prevents Sickness, is worth ten times as much money as other "Health" Insurance.

Yet "Cascaret" Insurance will cost you less than Ten Cents a week.

That gives you a "Vest Pocket" Box to carry constantly.

Madame de Sabrisson, Beauty Expert, in the First of Two Articles Written for the Boston American, Tells

HOW TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL FIGURE

Perfect Form May Be Won Only by Exercise

MADAME DE SABRISSON of France has come to America preaching the gospel of beauty. She is herself a beautiful woman, the result of a combination of natural health and constant care. Her figure is perfect, her complexion flawless. She believes it the mission of every woman to be beautiful.

For a week she has been in Boston, starting the beauty crusade. In the Fall she returns. In the meantime, these are the rules she gives to start women on their quest for beauty.

By Madame de Sabrisson

WOMAN was born to be beautiful. It is her duty to live up to her birthright. It is her own fault if she does not.

A woman has no right to weep because she is growing old. She has the power to keep young, and she can do so if she wishes to.

Our bodies are like engines. If we do not take care of them they rust out and become useless.

Exercise is the foundation of physical beauty and health. Not one woman in a hundred gets the exercise that she needs.

It is impossible to keep one's health and youth unless one's body is kept flexible and one's circulation perfect.

There is no use in worrying because one does not possess a good figure. The thing to do is to make a good figure.

For the benefit of the BOSTON AMERICAN I am giving some simple exercises which, if done faithfully and persistently, will work wonders in figure building.

How to Walk

I take it for granted that in these days every woman knows how to stand properly, with the weight on the balls of the feet, the heels together, the knees straight, the abdomen back, the chest and the shoulders straight.

When you walk, walk easily and naturally, and don't be afraid of that little free swing which perfect naturalness gives.

To Reduce Abdomen

Many women suffer from too prominent abdomen. This is easily remedied.

In Figure 1 you see the first movement. Stand straight, heels together, knees straight.

Raise the arms above the head, palms to the front and thumbs touching.

Inhale. Then slowly, keeping the head straight from the waist and the knees stiff, bend over until you can touch the floor. See Figure 2.

Do this twenty times, night and morning, and watch your abdomen disappear.

At first it will be impossible to reach the floor, but you can do it in time, perhaps even laying your palms flat.

For a Small Waist

The demand of fashion is for a small waist. This is easily acquired.

Stand properly, placing the thumbs firmly in the waist line, well toward the centre back. Then spring forward on the right knee, then on the left, keeping the body firm and making the knee pull the waist muscles.

This is wonderfully good. It not only reduces the waist line but it makes it flexible and graceful.

Many women, particularly stout women, have an unsightly hump of fat on the back of the neck between the shoulders.

For Too Fat Shoulders

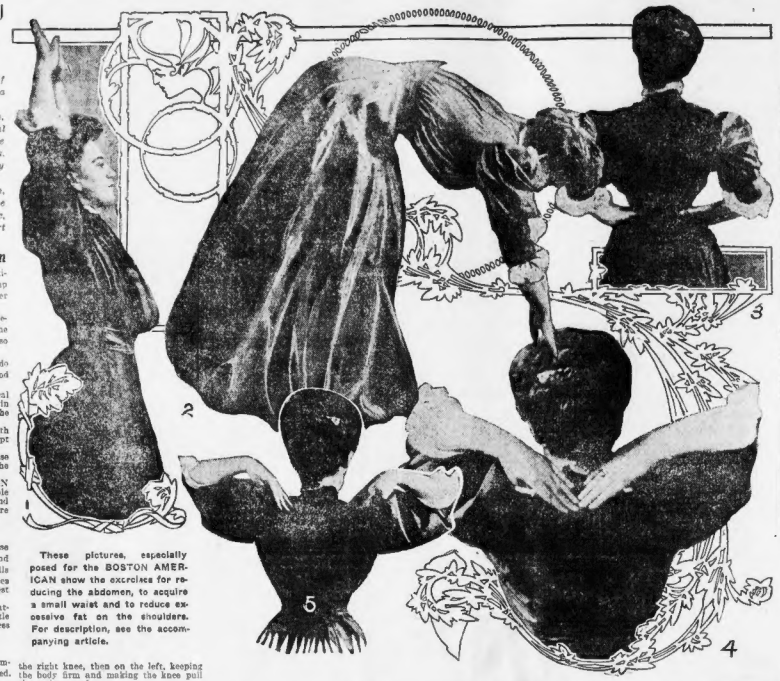
Place the finger tips firmly over the hump, then pull out to the position shown in Figure 5.

Pull firmly, slowly and with the determination to make the fat go outward on the shoulders where it belongs.

None of these exercises can be done in a minute, but persistence will bring its reward.

To-morrow I will show how to develop the chest and beautify the arms.



These pictures, especially posed for the BOSTON AMERICAN show the exercises for reducing the abdomen, to acquire a small waist and to reduce excessive fat on the shoulders. For description, see the accompanying article.

Queen or Peasant, a Mother Is Only a Mother, After All

By Beatrice Fairfax

AWAY across the ocean in sunny Spain there lies a very happy woman. And all Spain feels a great tenderness and love for the young mother who has gone down to the very edge of the Valley of the Shadow and returned safely, bringing her little son with her.

All Spain is en fete. bands are playing, guns firing, flags flying, and yet the very core of the joy is centred in one quiet room where a wan little mother and a soft bundle of scented flannel and lace lie nestled safe and close together.

To-day Victoria of Spain is more mother than Queen. Nothing in all the wide world seems as important as that softly breathing little bundle by her side. There has come to her the purest thrill of ecstasy that can come to any woman, high or, low, rich or poor.

Knows No Rank

THE blessed part of it is that it is a joy that knows no grade or rank or riches.

The woman in the one room flat has shared it with the woman who wears a crown.

Every mother in the world knows just how happy the young Queen of Spain feels when she gazes proudly at her baby son.

Spain rejoices greatly because the baby is a boy, and of course the Queen is proud and glad that she has borne an heir to the throne.

But had the baby been a girl the mother would have loved it just as well, the little, helpless hands would have laid their everlasting clutch upon her heart-strings just as firmly.

Probably many a young Spanish mother will envy the baby prince his priceless layette and all the luxury that awaits him.

But if she only knew it, every mother in Spain will have more genuine, motherly joy out of her baby than will the Queen.

Always Ceremony

THE ordinary mother may run to her baby when he cries, may cuddle him, bathe him, fuss over him with all the adorable fussiness that only mothers possess, but the royal mother is hedged about with court etiquette.

She may only see her baby at stated intervals. She cannot go to his cradle and bend over him in silent worship.

He is the heir to a throne, and from the hour of his birth must be treated as such.

Oh, happy American mothers, with your free lives, your American babies, send a prayer of love and sympathy to the high born little mother across the seas, who, though she knows all the bliss and joy of mother-love, yet will not get half as much comfort out of it as the lowliest mother in the land.

"THE HERITAGE OF HATE"

CHAPTER XVIII.

Attorney Nudd

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE legal firm of Nudd, Wegulin & Nudd was an old one, but respect for its membership had not grown with its age. Trickery had marked its advancement and success; its motto had been: "Win—no matter how."

And it had won. The working of political wires, the corruption of jurors and judiciary, the scores of devious means that blaze the path of the legal charlatan had aided in the winning of wealth and contempt for the members of the firm.

As they had encompassed wealth the members had dropped away, one by one, first from the courts and political headquarters where they had passed the best years of their lives, then from the luxurious houses to which they had retired.

Now the firm of Nudd, Wegulin & Nudd represented only James Nudd, son and nephew of two of the founders. While without starting legal ability, Jabez possessed in no small quantity the cunning and sweetness that had made the firm's members far better than a knowledge of Blackstone. But unlike his predecessors in the office, which too bathe your feet at night will help to make them more comfortable.

In stooping do not lie flat. Let your pillow lift the head until it rests even with the shoulders. It may be that there are people who can sleep without a pillow, but the ordinary mortal who tries it will get up in the morning with a headache. Sometimes a little scent sprinkled on one's pillow will induce sleep, and some people find it an excellent plan to also rub a little over the face and chest.

Jabez was odd stopped, and Mr. Nudd, bowing gravely, advanced to the edge of the pavement and spoke in a low tone to Mrs. Heath. His words were evidently to the effect that he desired to confer with her on a matter of some importance, for, with a slight, yet perfectly respectful, deepening of the lines of anxiety about her fine eyes and thin tightly drawn mouth, she stepped from the auto and accompanied the obsequious lawyer back into his office.

The Club of Graft

When they entered the private room and the door was closed Mr. Nudd confronted his handsome and elegant client with a new and not altogether pleasant craftiness gleaming half subdued in his small, pale eyes.

"You received a letter from out of town yesterday morning, I think, Mrs. Heath," he said very and significantly remarked by way of opening the interview.

She revealed astonished. Her face changed color. Had she yielded to her impulse she would have gasped; but she controlled herself fairly well, and replied to the remark in a tone of well-assumed carelessness.

A brief conversation ensued, the actual words of which would not have sounded particularly important to the ears of an outsider, but to Mrs. Heath, and Nudd himself, they were pregnant with meaning. On Mrs. Heath, however, their effect was immediate and profound, and it was as a direct result of this conversation that Mr. Nudd was presently closeted with the fourth husband of the notorious Cook family, and had received a long-coveted invitation to dine at the Heath house.

As a matter of fact the mansion, and, indeed, the whole property, had by his various mortgages practically become his own. But despite his secret hold upon their property, the family had hitherto kept markedly aloof from him in a social way. It was, therefore, only natural that he should be filled with an intense gratification at having, by clever manoeuvering, won for himself at last the privilege of crossing the threshold as an equal and a guest.

A Happy Schemer

He sat rubbing his hands, utterly forgetful of the evening correspondence, while the bright Spring sunlight poured in upon him through the dingy window panes. There was a light in his little eyes, too, which told of more than mere social satisfaction; a light which suggested audacious hopes of yet higher things to come and a determination to bring to maturity plans in this that makes even a hint of it flow more powerful than the grip I have upon their wealth and power.

"I must have something stronger to play with," he said, aloud, "and I have it in the lowers, over that whole household.

Rich and poor, high and low, all love a scandal. Mr. Erskine-Nudd of Heath Hall in England will be ready to defy their paternal terrors, and as an English landed gentleman and a member of a noble family he say farewell to Fifth avenue and the smoke who now refuses to recognize me."

TO BE CONTINUED.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

ALWAYS use cold water for washing glasses. The cold water not only helps to produce a fine, brilliant polish than warm water does, but it is a safeguard against unnecessary breakage.

For an ordinary sore throat, with loss of voice or huskiness, dip a folded linen handkerchief in cold water, encircle the neck with the wet handkerchief and cover it with several folds of old flannel. One night's application is usually sufficient to relieve slight cases.

Rest the feet as much as possible by changing the shoes several times a day—even from an old shoe to a new one is a rest. The muscles of the foot tire of one position, and it is wonderful how a frequent change of shoes rests them. A few drops of ammonia added to the water in which you bathe your feet at night will help to make them more comfortable.

Resolution

One fine Spring morning toward the end of the month Mr. Nudd was seated in his private office looking over his correspondence, when, chancing to lift his small, keen eyes to the mirror which hung in the window to reflect for his information all that went on in the street, he saw a red touring car rapidly approaching. The equipage was piloted by a lady in a long, dusty coat and veil. Instantly Nudd sprang up and touched the bell button.

"Cyrnge," he said, when that worthy appeared, "there is Mrs. Heath's auto coming down the street. Go out and stop it. I want to speak to her."

Quite a little tinge of color had come into his dull cheeks. He turned to another mirror that hung over the mantelpiece and inspected himself in it, twirled the ends of his stiff mustache, saw that his necktie was perfectly straight, and then, catching up his hat, followed Cyrnge to the door.

A Lawyer's Scheme

For Mr. Nudd's social ambitions were greater by far than his professional ones. He was scheming to gain a footing in society.

In the beginning of his career it had been a constant source of irritation to him that his people—unpretentious people with an eye to their son's future distinction—should have inflicted him with the name of Jabez. Such a name, at once ugly and plebeian, was a constant shame to him—a perpetual handicap in the race of life.

One day a bright idea occurred to him. He remembered that a brother-in-law of his mother's had taken for his second wife a lady of the name of Erskine, and on this slight foundation he built up for himself a claim to that aristocratic appellation. He sandwiched it in between the objectionable Jabez and the insignificant Nudd, and gradually came to be spoken and written of as Jabez Erskine Nudd. Latterly he had ventured still further to improve on this arrangement by the suppression of the Jabez and the insertion of a hyphen; so that now he was known to the community in general as Mr. J. Erskine-Nudd.

Ambition

Mr. Nudd's ambitions were not limited to his own personal aggrandizement. He had designs upon his wife's family also. Her father, Cyrus Heath, had been a man of considerable wealth, and had left behind him a widow and two children, a son and a daughter. The son, Cyrus Heath, Jr., was a young man of dissipated habits, who had squandered his share of the estate, and was now living in Europe on the remainder of his mother's property. The daughter, Mrs. Heath, was a widow, and had inherited a handsome property from her husband, who had been a wealthy Boston merchant.

Mrs. Heath was a woman of fine presence, and of a certain cold dignity of manner which commanded respect. She was a leader in the more conservative set of Boston society, and was a member of many of the most exclusive clubs. Nudd had long been desirous of cultivating her acquaintance, but had hitherto found no opportunity to do so. Now, however, he had received a letter from her which he felt sure would lead to the desired end.

The Letter

The letter was dated from Mrs. Heath's country place at Hamilton, and was as follows:

"DEAR MR. NUDD: I am sorry to trouble you with business matters while you are enjoying your vacation, but I have received a letter from my son Cyrus, which I think requires my immediate attention. He has got himself into some trouble, and wishes me to send him money. I am not very well myself, and do not feel like going to the bank. Will you kindly call and see me at your earliest convenience?

"Yours very truly,
"ELIZABETH REEK.

"P. S.—Please bring me a check book."

"Reek!" he said, aloud, as he finished reading the letter. "Reek! Why, that's the name of the fellow who was mixed up in that Chicago scandal a few years ago. Can it be that Mrs. Heath has married again?"

He turned to the letter and read it over carefully. Then he looked at the envelope. It was addressed in a bold, masculine hand, and bore the postmark of Hamilton.

"Reek!" he repeated

'THREE OF US' DELIGHTFULLY TRUE TO LIFE

A little bit of Nevada, a few of the human beings who people its mining camps, a day and a night there with eyes were picked bodily up and transmitted, as it by telepathy, to the stage of the Majestic Theatre last night. For three hours a big audience sat quietly, almost tearfully, and watched this page of human life being developed before their eyes, and when they left the theatre the universal verdict was: It was the most natural and interesting thing I ever saw.

The success of "The Three of Us" is not so much a tribute to the author, Rachel Crothers, for the book is full of crudities, as it is a decided tribute to the genius of a stage manager the programme says it is George Foster Platt, who has at last succeeded in getting actors to act as human beings really do in daily life, and to the unusually capable company which carried out his central idea—of absolute naturalness. There were great chunks of emotion, bushels of tears, delicious bits of humor, pitch and otherwise, and even a yellow canary that finds the stage setting and the people in it so perfectly natural that he sings from the very fulness of its heart.

The first act is needlessly long, but after that the piece moves swiftly to its close, gaining strength with every moment. Ther eare a number of extremely good character scenes in the cast, and Miss Trussdell plays the loved lover and Henry Kolker the unloved lover. Mr. Kolker, especially, is effective in his perfect naturalness, and Mr. Trussdell would be if he would make up more satisfactorily. The Glen Macchesney of John Wesley is ideal. He reveals the inner soul of an inconsequential, restless boy with unusual detail. Eva Vincent's Irish servant girl is a model for that character, and the little that Josie Peyton has to do tells strongly.

But, surmounting all, is the charm, the delicious self-effacement, the remarkably realistic fibre of Laura Nelson Hall. Every emotion that a real girl would show she sends across the footlights. Above all, there isn't a line or a situation that cannot be heard or seen by the most modest of young women. It is clean, sweet and pure.

GONDOLIERS' STAR IS CLARA LANE

Lovers of light opera are given a genuine treat at the Castle Square Theatre this week. "The Gondoliers," considered by many to be the best work of W. S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, is the offering. As in all of these authors' operas, the plot is a paradoxical one. Dilemmas succeed one another in rapid succession. Miss Clara Lane was the particular star of last night's performance. She was right at home in the character of Gianetta. Her voice was in excellent form, her acting displayed a perfect interpretation of the role and her footwork in the second act showed that she can dance as well as sing and act well. Mr. Murray and Harry Davies in the dual title roles did excellent work. Otis B. Thayer was troubled with hoarseness on his entrance, but gained both a clear voice and confidence. W. H. Thompson made his first appearance of the season in the role of Don and Hattie Belle Ladd was warmly welcomed as the Duchess. Miss Louise Le Baron was a pleasing Tessa and Miss Maud Earl a cute Casilda. A chorus of fifty that can sing and dance well support the principals.

LIVELY SHOWS AT VARIETY HOUSES

Columbia Theatre

If Rossmores are not acquainted with Yankee Lashkasy they help better become so, for this quaint and jolly individual is here at the Columbia to make society run. A big gathering was on hand at the Columbia last night to greet Mr. Lashkasy, and the way they laughed and giggled, grinned and smiled, roared and yelled was proof positive that as an entertainer he is in a class all by himself. The Lashkasy referred to is none other than one Charles Burkhardt, one of the best delineators of Jewish characters on the stage. He is the chief funmaker of the Miss New York, Jr., show.

Austin & Stone's Museum

There can be no question about the popularity of the "Minstrel Maids" after the celebration of the opening of the one-hundredth continuous week of this feature yesterday at Austin & Stone's Museum. A special programme was presented and souvenir cards were handed to patrons. Many of the maids were recipients of floral pieces. "On the Midway" in the curio hall brought out Joe Hood, in phenomenal pool shots; Tom and Vera Fleming, contortionists; the Cherry Hill glaniers; Germon, on twenty different musical instruments.

Palace Theatre

Judging from the splendid entertainment presented at the Palace Theatre yesterday, the new stock company promises to prove immensely popular throughout the Summer. The entertainment is on a par with the very best given during the regular season by the traveling companies. This week's bill includes two funny burlesques, entitled "A One Night's Tragedy" and "In Dear Old Heidelberg."

Lyceum Theatre

The Trans-Oceanics presented two lively performances yesterday at the Lyceum. The feminine contingent is especially attractive. The burlesque is a laughable offering in one act, entitled "A Pawnshop for a Day," in which Tommy White and Harry Ward keep the comedy at high pitch. A pronounced hit was "Sandy" Chapman, who sang "Some Day When Dreams Come True." Vaudeville was presented by the Marshall Montgomery trio; Fred Bowman, banjoist; Rice and Walters, in "A Day on the Farm"; Frank Weston, soubrette; Clark and Hanson, in a comedy sketch; "Sense and Nonsense"; Howard, Ward and Raymond, singing and dancing.

Howard Athenaeum

Jolly Grass Widows are to their glory with a list of novelties at the Old Howard this week. Their rat burlesque is entitled "The Professional Widow," and it is a scream from start to finish. A grass widow is always interesting to say the least, and a company of them simply must ripples the lotus root. The second act, entitled, "Are You a Lobster," added merriment to the fracas. Miss Ruth Everett had a mechanical doll which did tricks. The Old Howard's extra numbers are the Zorados, Marion Lorraine, Phil Sheridan, Irish wit, and a score of other first-class acts. The Howardscope has a number of new pictures.

MUSIC HOLDS SWAY FOR ANOTHER WEEK

"The Spring Chicken"

Richard Carle entered upon his last fortnight at the Colonial Theatre last evening, and "The Spring Chicken" crowded them, and in the presence of an audience just as large as the theatre would hold. There is no question about the hearty liking that Boston has for anything with which Mr. Carle is identified.

"Time, Place and Girl."

There has not been a livelier show upon the stage of the Tremont Theatre for a long time than "The Time, the Place and the Girl." There has been a good deal comedy from Chicago the heartiest sort of a reception, and there was much enthusiasm on the occasion of the opening of the second week of the engagement as there was upon its premiere a week ago.

"PRINCE CHAP" COMING.

One of the most wholesome and brightest plays brought to Boston in many a day is coming to the Hollis Street Theatre on Monday, May 20, when Cyril Scott and "The Prince Chap" make their initial appearance in this city. Not only is the play rich in human interests, but it abounds in merriment.

OLGA NETHERSOLE PLAYS THURSDAY

Although Olga Nethersole did not play at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening as announced, there was no tendency on the part of the public to waste its money. The performance originally announced for that night will be as follows: Thursday evening, "Adrienne Lecouvreur"; Friday evening, "Camille"; Saturday afternoon and evening performances, "Sapho."

MANY NAME PLAYS FOR MISS LAWRENCE

Although Lillian Lawrence sent many her requests for the naming of popular plays yesterday, a number of suggestions were sent to the Park Theatre during the day. She asks any of her friends to name the play most in demand and the play most in demand will be given as the third of her Summer engagement with the stock company at the Park Theatre, which opens next Saturday evening in "Frou-Frou."

Better Follow Anty Drudge's Advice.

Mrs. Newbride—"Yes, but this is the way mother washed. She always said to boil the clothes good and long."

Anty Drudge—"Yes, and your mother wore hoopskirts, and a poke bonnet, and did her sewing by hand, when she was young. But I don't see you doing those things. Take my advice and use Fels-Naptha soap in cold or lukewarm water. Those pretty white hands will last longer and so will your health."

Every woman inherits certain ways of doing housework from her mother as the mother did from her grandmother. One of these ideas from ancient times concerns the washing of clothes. "Boil 'em, Boil 'em good," is the old tradition. Until the invention of Fels-Naptha soap that was the only way to wash. Now, isn't it foolish to keep on boiling clothes, and rubbing them hard, when a way to wash better in cold or lukewarm water with no hard rubbing has been found?

Clothes last longer with no boiling to weaken their fibre. Every progressive woman is glad to get rid of the hot fire, steam and suds, as well as the back-breaking work of hard rubbing.

But there's a right way and a wrong way to use Fels-Naptha. Start right. Follow the directions on the wrapper and you'll have a better, easier, cleaner way of washing. For other reasons which are explained on the red and green wrapper, Fels-Naptha is just as superior for all kitchen purposes as it is for washing.

FAVORITES LEAD BILL IN KEITH SHOW

Favorites comprise the larger portion of the Keith bill this week. Phyllis Rankin and Harry Davenport make their first joint appearance here in a new farcelet, "The Goddess," which goes exceedingly well. Ben Welch, the character comedian, in "The Hebrew and the Dago," and Willy Pantzer troupe, in a comedy acrobatic turn were the other high rates.

Dave Genaro and Ray Bailey scored a hit in one of the biggest novelty dancing specialties in vaudeville. The turn shows original and difficult steps. Willis Holt Wakefield, the society entertainer, is assisted with her pianologue. Frances Piper was a novelty in playing and juggling bottles. The Two Vivians gave a wonderful exhibition of straight and trick wheelbarrowing.

Arnoldo's leopards, an interesting animal act; Work and Ower, gymnastic novelty artists; Delmore and Oneida, Japanese perch performers; Chalk Saunders, a line of rapid fire sketches; Wood and Lawson, in a singing and dancing skit; Minnie Harrison, the singing comedienne, and Ben Moore, the humorous dialectist were all interesting.

NEW LEADING MAN AT THE BOWDOIN

"An Actor's Romance" is the thrilling melodrama at the Bowdoin Square Theatre this week. Much interest is centred in Arthur Behrens, the new leading man, and Miss Charlotte Hunt, the leading lady, who returns after an absence of a few weeks. Mr. Behrens might say, with Caesar: "I came, I saw, I conquered" for Boston took him to its heart at once, and to conquer he surely did. As Harold Dawson of five months' duration seems to bear out. Boston gave him a royal reception, and the assertion of superlative merits

CONRIED STOPS "LA BOHEME" HERE BY SAN CARLO SINGERS

The performance of "La Boheme," advertised for last evening by the San Carlo opera company at the Park Theatre, did not come off, owing, so it is claimed by the management, to the machinations of Herr Conried of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York with the publishers of "La Boheme."

The first inkling that all was not progressing smoothly was the lateness of the hour before the musicians entered. Then Henry Russell, director of the company, made a little speech. Two acts of "The opera "Barber of Seville" was substituted and the audience was just as well pleased.

Although a money refund was announced, but a solitary individual went out to take advantage of it.

The fourth act of "Rigoletto" was also given. Senor Constantino's singing was a return to the real and example in all operating opera singers. He played the light comedy role with sufficient archness and altogether was the best exponent of this particular opera this generation has known.

Miss Nielsen inevitably forced comparison with the latter's great vocalists as Rosina, but she did not fail to please both by the archness of her impersonation and the steadily effective and pleasant quality of her singing.

OLD HEIDELBERG TRUE TO LIFE

John Craig and his company received a royal reception at the Globe Theatre last night in the opening production of Old Heidelberg, the new play that will be Mr. Craig and his leading woman, Miss Mary Young, were obliged to respond time and time again to the applause, while at the close of the second act the audience refused to be pacified until Craig appeared before the curtain and made a speech. The play, a true depiction of old Bohemia, abounding in realistic situations and climaxes, was pleasingly staged and the charcters realistically portrayed.

BIG FEATURE ACT AT WONDERLAND

After travelling more than a week from Mexico, Blake's dog, monkey and pony circus, to be one of the big features at Wonderland this season, has just reached Revere. This animal circus is declared to be the paragon of that class of exhibitions, and the fact that its latest season was in Cuba, in the city of Mexico, was conquer he surely did. As Harold Dawson of five months' duration seems to bear out, Boston gave him a royal reception, and the assertion of superlative merits

GRAND OPERA HOUSE SEASON NEARS END

The Grand Opera House ends its season this week with the greatest of all the large crop of vaudeville dramas in which the last few engagements have given birth—"The Two Orphans," as an attraction. The trials of Louise, the blind girl, were very real as portrayed by Jessamine Woods, and at times she had some of her audience in tears.

Umpires—Emslie and Carpenter.

The Doves will go after the Pirates in the second contest this afternoon with huge junks of confidence, as the opener proved conclusively that when it comes to mixing up different styles of the game they are right there.

If the Pirates hadn't got the jump yesterday there would have been some tall scratching for the final result, and it's up to the Doves to prevent the same thing happening to-day.

A repetition of the melody is hardly looked for, and the teams will go after the two remaining games with all the cogs of the machinery working smoothly.

At pumping out the hits the locals showed equal aptitude, but lacked the powers of the Pirates, who have a few sluggers in the ranks able to give wings to the ball when they connect.

Pat Flaherty will try to outwit his old team mates, and there will be some fun with this quick acting fusiler keeping the Pirates on the jump. He knows all their weak points with the stick and should be able to get away with the trick.

We may have Vic Willis served up by the Pirates and the big pitcher is dangerous when working right.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

It looked, like a Waterloo at the break away.

* * *

There wasn't any place of the game that was missing.

* * *

What a batting wonder Wagner is! Five hits including a homer and a double. His percentage was 1,000.

Three runs and three hits in four innings were all that the Pirates could get off Beuties, the colt. He ought to have started the game.

* * *

Boultes also batted well. He got two singles both times up.

* * *

Every member of the home team got a hit in the sixth inning Needham.

* * *

Lefty Fiefield's life was made miserable when the hits rained around him.

* * *

The windup was lively and the result made the score look better.

* * *

After eight hits, including two doubles, had been made off Liefield, Clarke called the old reliable Phillippi to the rescue.

* * *

Liefield took his way to the stable grinning, good naturedly.

* * *

When Phillippi started in he made quick work of it by striking the Doves to order.

* * *

Boultes hit an awful rap at Leach the first time up. The ball caromed out to Clarke in deep left.

* * *

The Doves were stinging them, judging by the way the ball was glanding off shins and hands.

* * *

Ritchey was robbed of a hard assist when Carpenter called Gibson safe in the ninth.

* * *

Tom Needham has been out of the game so long that the second each was to be out of his range. He'll have the bag down to a science in short order.

* * *

Phillippi got a nasty liner on the foot off Beaumont's bat in the eighth, the ball going straight to Leach making it easy to make the assist.

* * *

After seven hits and six runs were made off Young, Dorner went on the slab. Six hits and five runs came and Boultes took up a bad looking proposition.

* * *

While the Pirates forced two bat men to abdicate, the Doves did a little eviction themselves by driving Liefield, one of the Pirates' best, to the shed.

* * *

Wagner's homer hit the telegraph pole outside the fence and bounded back in the field.

* * *

Capt. Clarke made a dashing play off Tenney in the final inning. He took his bat on the dead run back of second base.

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Headed by Bob Unglaub, the Boston Americans arrived early to-day from Detroit to do battle for four days with Lajoie's Larrupers. As this will be the Bostonians' first visit this season a large crowd is expected. The former champs, whether leader or tailender in the league race, have been popular in Cleveland, and the fans no doubt will turn out in large numbers to give old Cy Young and Lou Criger, ex-Clevelanders a royal welcome.

The Naps seem to have struck a winning gait and although on past performances they should not have much difficulty in defeating the Taylor tribe, they do fear them, as Young and Tannehill have always been stumbling blocks here. So far this season a large crowd is expected. The former champs, whether leader or tailender in the league race, have been popular in Cleveland, and the fans no doubt will turn out in large numbers to give old Cy Young and Lou Criger, ex-Clevelanders a royal welcome.

The Naps seem to have struck a winning gait and although on past performances they should not have much difficulty in defeating the Taylor tribe, they do fear them, as Young and Tannehill have always been stumbling blocks here. So far this year the Naps have handed it to such torrors as Altrock and Killian, Lajoie hopes they will treat South Paw Tannehill and "pound out" his similar way.

"We need all the games we can get," said Larry this morning, "and we shall try our best to make it four straight from the ex-champs, but you can never tell what Young and Tannehill will do."

The Naps are in the best possible shape. Joss has been the best pitcher so far having won every game in which he twirled. Lieberhardt, "the iron man of the South" has the next best record. Hess is still unreliable, while Rhoades has not yet displayed old time form. Moore doesn't seem to be himself.

Clarke has been doing all the backstop work, Bemis having returned from a two weeks' stay at home in Marlboro, Mass., where his child is sick.

Joss is slated to pitch to-day and opposed to him will probably be Tannehill.

ROCHESTER HORSEMEN TO HOLD BIG MATINEE

Special to the Boston American.

ROCHESTER, N. H., May14.—Preparations for the grand matinee at Cold Spring Park on Memorial Day, in which the Mayors of Dover, Somersworth and Rochester will be present, are rapidly reaching completion, and with a membership of well over a hundred members in the driving club of this city, representing about fifty horses eligible to the numerous classes, there can be no doubt of the success of the meeting.

While Secretary Homer C. Lowe does not close the entry list till the 27th, yet already some twenty horses have been named, and the prospects are that fully seventy-five entries will have been made when the program is announced.

The strong hold that matinee racing has secured in this section is attested by horsemen belonging to the driving club from not only Rochester, but from Dover, Somersworth, Farmington, Lisconia, Wolfboro, the Alton shore and Sanford. They are rapidly placed the local organization on equal footing with any club of the kind located in New England.

In their efforts to win the costly prizes offered in the six classes scheduled for Memorial Day members of the club have recently bought seven fast trotters and pacers from Boston parties and two from Granite State Park.

In order to take part in the races "Long Shot" Cox and John Wall, who are training their horses at the Dover track, have recently joined the Rochester Driving Club. Just what horses they will start Memorial Day is not known, but they have plenty of green ones that the racing experience will do a lot of good. Besides a special event is on tap between John M., 2:02¾; Nervola, 2:04¾; and The Friend, 2:03¾.

C. A. GILMORE JOINS THE KNOX COMPANY

BY J. C. KERRISON.

The latest man to forsake the independents and join the licensed fold is Clarence A. Gilmore, who for the past year or so has been the head of the Rambler establishment in this city. Mr. Gilmore has accepted a more responsible position under his old commander, George W. Bennett, and after June 1 will be the general traveling representative of the Knox Automobile Company of Springfield, a position he is well qualified to fill with credit to himself and of value to the company.

Clarence Gilmore, although a young man in years, possesses the head and ability of a veteran, having had training in an active and strict business school. He first came to Boston as an assistant to his brother, E. A. Gilmore, who was manager of the Boston branch of the Rambler. Then George W. Bennett transferred him to the general sales department, sending him back to Boston as full local manager upon the resignation of E. A. Gilmore. Since taking hold of the Boston office he continued the good work of his predecessor, and it is not detracting one bit from the ability of the former when it is said that his successor has made a handsome year for the Boston branch.

Gilmore will travel the country at large, and no matter where he may be he is always sure of possessing the esteem of those he meets, and carries with him the sincere good will and friendship of the men of Boston who, like himself, are laborers in the horse world.

The bill providing for the annual registration of motor vehicles now being considered by the Massachusetts Legislature does not as many imagine go into effect on July 1, but instead becomes operative on the first day of the new year. This is, that section providing that the individual owner shall pay $5 per annum for the registration of an automobile goes into effect that day, but the section relating to the dealers becomes operative upon its passage. This is very unfortunate condition of affairs, one section going into immediate effect, while the other hangs over until January 1. There seems to be no reason to believe that the proposed measure will fail of enactment. There is unquestionably an inclination on the part of the majority of representatives and senators to pass the proposed measure, thereby making the motorists a privileged clientele to the public coffers, once to the tune of $5 and once to the tune of $10 in which he may reside. The first is termed registration, the second taxation of personal property. Still the motorists as a class seem to be thankful that they are permitted to breath the atmosphere without hindrance or expense.

Fond Recollection

Back in the days when I was winning my spurs I conceived the idea of doing something to compel attention—"I shall concentrate my endeavors on a specialty; I will produce a custom made suit at a price unequalled."

Blue serge, then, as now, was man's favorite Summer fabric; so I scoured the mills of all New England in search of good purchases. At $12.75 to order I sold the suits—sometimes at scant profit, other times at no profit, but my fixed purpose was carried out and I undersold all competition.

On that stroke of policy I builded a success, and that policy I maintain until this day. With my facilities and my purchasing power increased twenty-fold, I am now selling these serges vastly lower, and competition still looks on from the distance—while I clothe the town.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

A Real, Genuine Bargain

SALE OF PIANOS

We intended to give a detailed statement of each of the below bargains, but there has been so many good things said about these pianos by other advertisers and also by their makers that we "cut it short" and simply say that we have shaved off the price so that there is no profit in any of them for us, and we can truthfully say that if we sell some of them at the prices quoted that we will suffer a loss—There always comes a time in a Big Piano House like ours when we must sell to clean up the establishment of bargains. This week is the cut-price time here, and if you are looking for a good piano at your own price come early—Next week will be too late on this lot. Write us if you cannot call and we will tell you all about other bargains besides.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, MAY 14, 1907

Highly Important to Women

Many Merchants Are Overstocked. Bad Spring Weather Means YOUR CHANCE TO SECURE BARGAINS

Women, for the next two months, ought to study the advertisements of the big and little stores with very great care.

IT IS AN ABSOLUTE FACT THAT MERCHANTS TO-DAY ARE GREATLY OVERSTOCKED AND ARE COMPELLED TO SELL THEIR GOODS AT LOW PRICES.

The cold, rainy Spring has unfortunately done great harm to business men. The Spring season has been practically a failure.

MERCHANTS ARE COMPELLED IN THESE DAYS OF GREAT ORDERS AND KEEN COMPETITION TO ORDER THEIR GOODS A FULL YEAR IN ADVANCE. They must ORDER the goods anyhow; they cannot wait to see what the weather is going to be. Having ORDERED the goods, THEY MUST PAY FOR THEM, AND THEN THEY MUST SELL THEM, even at a sacrifice, if necessary.

Buying by the public, as all women know, has been very slow this Spring season. All kinds of merchandise, seasonable and otherwise, have sold very slowly.

The merchants see approaching the dead Summer season when buyers go out of town, when women and children are supplied for the Summer and when business flattens out.

THEY HAVE ALREADY ORDERED AND BOUGHT THEIR SUPPLIES FOR NEXT YEAR AND THEY MUST PAY FOR THEM.

They have got to get rid of their spring supplies now.

This is a chance that women should not neglect. Between now and the first of July there will be offered in all the best stores in Boston bargains that will probably not be duplicated for a long time, certainly not until some other extraordinary unseasonable Spring, such as the past, shall put the merchants again in their present unenviable predicament.

When you read the statement of a reliable merchant telling you that his store IS OVERSTOCKED, you may know that he is telling you the exact truth. And when he tells you that he is COMPELLED TO SELL at a sacrifice, that he must clear out this season's supply of goods, get back at least part of the money he invested a year ago and get ready for the next big selling period, you may know that he is telling the truth and offering you a genuine opportunity to spend your money wisely.

We advise no woman to buy MERELY BECAUSE A BARGAIN IS OFFERED TO HER. Women should cultivate self-restraint, and they are compelled to cultivate it only too often by a limited pocketbook.

We would not urge them now to go to the stores and buy anything UNLESS THEY ACTUALLY NEED IT.

But if there is anything that you actually NEED, anything that you want now, or that you will want later, it is a positive fact that this is probably as good a buying period as you will ever see. This we tell you in justice to yourselves, while we regret the loss that a backward, cold and rainy Spring has inflicted upon merchants. Study the bargains, seize opportunities.

Paternalism? Yes

Is Not a CHILD Entitled to Some Paternalism?

In the Page Child Labor Law New York State has taken a step toward adequate protection of children. The law has been approved by Governor Hughes, to his credit, and, beginning next year, New York State will set a fairly good example to the rest of the nation as regards child labor.

The law allows boys and girls under sixteen years of age to be kept at work for eight hours only, and only between the hours of 8 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. That is an improvement on the former law, which allowed children under sixteen to work nine hours between 6 in the morning and 7 in the evening.

The benefit of regulating such matters by law is this: It prevents GREEDY employers from being made the victims of their own sense of justice, AND IT COMPELS OTHER EMPLOYERS TO DO THE RIGHT THING WHETHER THEY WANT TO OR NOT.

As usual, there is a cry of "paternalism" in connection with this bill. Usually when a bill is called paternalistic, those that favor it defend it by saying that it is NOT paternal.

We say that this bill protecting the children IS PATERNAL, AND IT OUGHT TO BE PATERNAL.

Paternal means "fatherly." Are not CHILDREN entitled to fatherly treatment by the State? The welfare of the State and the nation depends on the health and the vigor of future men and women. Is not the State AS MUCH A FATHER AND INTERESTED IN ITS CHILDREN AS EACH INDIVIDUAL PARENT?

This bill protecting the children in New York State is a paternal bill, a fatherly bill. We are very glad that it IS fatherly. And we wish that lawmakers and employers all over the country could be induced to take a fatherly view of children and their needs, instead of looking upon them so often as a fox looks upon the young chickens in the barnyard.

Pulpit and Press

By Rev. A. E. George

SENSATIONAL newspapers were attacked in the recent Episcopal convention held in Boston.

What is a sensational newspaper?

It is merely a paper that makes its news interesting and attractive. A paper is published to sell, and whatever tends to sell it may be called more or less sensational.

Business methods are to-day more or less sensational in the same sense. Department stores, with their variety of merchandise, are plainly sensational in the manner of disposing of their wares.

People would not buy if any other policy different than this were followed. We are all so constructed in our likes and dislikes that the toning solution that makes a subject attractive is found in this very method that some well-meaning persons deplore in a newspaper but apparently overlook in other businesses.

Everyone is catering to the public taste. The preacher who overlooks this finds his usefulness curtailed and need not wonder at his failure.

Anyone who deals with the public in a general way must yield to what the public wants.

The newspaper studies the wants of the people. They want the news in detail upon some important crime, and they will not be satisfied until they get it.

Sermons are always attractive when interesting. The unattractiveness of the modern pulpit is due to the fact that it makes truth appear as fiction.

To serve this truth up in the details of making it interesting may be nothing short of making it sensational.

This is the secret of the success of many preachers. Call them sensational if you will, but they get hold of the people.

Little Editorials from the People

A PUBLIC QUESTION

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I never knew being thankful that you have come to Boston. It is such an unfailing delight to take up a Boston paper with its plunging into the dreary desert of homicidal stupidity, the utter deadly waste of unrelieved commonplaceness, which has always been the distinguishing characteristic of Boston newspapers.

Can you point out in the constitution of Massachusetts the clause conferring explicit power upon any court the power to issue any such injunction as has been issued in view of the teamsters' strike? And can you point out, in a way to make it clear to the ordinary mind, any essential distinction between such an injunction and the edict of a dozen years ago? The latter, reported in the papers, certainly abridges the freedom of speech, and the law is expressly prohibited from abridging the freedom of speech. Have we a government of laws or a government of judges?

Ashland. W. C. ROSE.

If the laws of Massachusetts undoubtedly authorize Judge Loring to do exactly what he did. The fault lies with the Massachusetts Legislature, which recently voted to take no action this year on the picketing and anti-injunction bills. These bills, if enacted into law, would put such injunctions as that issued by Judge Loring impossible.—Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

She Makes a Plea for Aid in the Good Work of Protecting the Dumb Animals of Italian Cities

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE magnificence and beauty of the scenery of Italy and Sicily beggar description.

Nature has been opulent in her bestowal of gifts to these countries.

Mountains, volcanoes, seas, trees laden with blossoms and fruit the year round, flowers, vines, sunshine all combine to render Italy a wonder and a glory to the eye.

Having drunk its fill to all nature's offerings, the eye turns next to the art treasures of two thousand years. Sculpture, painting, mosaics, architecture, so beautiful that the pleasure of contemplation becomes a pain, are everywhere. The works of the greatest artists the world has ever known abound in Italy, and from excavated cities, old in all the arts before Christ was born, marvelous statues are unearthed, whose splendor lives, though the creators' names are lost.

But alas! that in a country so rich in natural and artistic treasures such cruelty, ignorance, poverty and uncleanliness should prevail.

The cruelty to man's best friend and helper, the horse, in Italy mars the pleasure of every sensitive, humane traveller in that land. A peculiar bridle, invented surely by demons, is used on horses, donkeys and mules by the great majority of Italian drivers. The reins are connected with a strap across the nose of the animal, and inside this strap are sharp prods which penetrate the flesh every time the reins are pulled.

A stick with an iron nut at the top, used for beating a horse. Two have been confiscated.

A piece of wood with a nail at the lower end, used for beating a mule.

A whip in the tip of which a nail is fixed for use as a goad. One hundred and forty-four have been seized.

A whip with a nail fixed in the handle, so that it could easily be hidden when an inspector was seen.

A bone hand with sharp saw-like edges. One hundred and ninety-six have been seized.

Some knives used as goads, which the drivers, seated on a shaft of their donkey carts, plunged from time to time into a sore prepared for the purpose by peeling a piece of skin off the animal's back. Forty have been confiscated.

Two long nails fixed in a piece of leather which was fastened on the top of a carriage pole, so that if one of the horses reared his head on the pole the nails went up his nostrils.

A shaft hand studded with long nails, which constantly pierced the poor donkey on which it was found, whether he was pulling or standing still. Thirty-two of these have been seized.

Terrible as these things sound, they look more terrible when seen; and the fact that tens of thousands of them still are in use, because of inability of the society to cover all Italy, or even all Naples, and Sicily, makes the sojourn of an animal loving traveller in Italy a painful one.

The World Grows Better

AND yet, despite it all, one is obliged to realize how the world improves.

In England no longer ago than 1811 there was absolute indifference to the suffering of animals.

And to-day, thanks to organized effort, England is one of the most humane lands on earth toward animals; and it is an Englishman, aided by English men and women, who is doing the noble work in Italy of protecting dumb animals from the brutality of human beings.

Let every American visitor to Italy send a small (or large) donation to Leonard T. Hawksley, Naples, Italy, to help him in his great work.

So long as Americans are continually pouring into Italy as tourists and continually demanding the services of drivers, they should be glad to help on a work which is providing better drivers and better horses for the public.

I would recommend a visit to Mr. Hawksley's office, opposite the American Express Company, to every American visitor at Naples, and a donation of at least a franc to the good work.

A Friend of Animals

I LOOKED at scores of the poor creatures on the streets, in cabs and drays and carts, and scarcely one was free from a scarred, festered, swollen or disfigured nose. Yet there is a live, active, vital working Society for the Protection of Animals in Italy, and it is doing great work and patiently striving to do away with these evils.

At the head of this society is Leonard T. Hawksley, a young Englishman —God bless him!

At some future time I will tell more about this young man, for of such as he are the elect of God.

All I can say now is that he gave up a prospect of a bright career in England and grieved his ambitious family to come to Italy and give his life to this work. And it has proved to be almost his life, for Mr. Hawksley was assaulted by the drivers he had arrested for cruelty and very nearly killed. He was left for dead in the street, and when after weeks in a hospital he again appeared the superstitious people of Naples were frightened into the belief that he possessed spiritual powers, and his work has been aided thereby.

Painful as is the condition of animals in Italy now, the improvement made by this society is enormous, and it needs only more money and the aid of all tourists in sympathy and in small contributions to do away with half of the evils now existing.

The Pope has blessed the society and written an autograph blessing on his photograph for all who abstained from cruelty to animals. This is one of the greatest steps toward progress of the humane race ever taken by any Pope, for it means the awakening of the individual conscience to a responsibility toward weaker creatures.

The Naples society has a room filled with the awful instruments of torture which it has taken away from drivers.

Here are a few of them:

A fork and matteck used for heating animals. One hundred and seventeen have been confiscated.

A stake, three inches thick, used for beating a donkey. About twenty-three thousand have been confiscated.

A pincushion for piping used for beating a donkey. Ten of these have been seized.

The White House Dog

By James J. Montague

A CERTAIN dog named Cerberus, so run the tales of yore,
Was wont to free the ghosts that roamed on Nights Plutonian shore
Ulysses' faithful Argus, when the former came from Troy.
Was so delighted that he died of unaffected joy.
Through all recorded history have sundry dogs laid claim,
And had their several claims allowed, to various sorts of fame.
We grant the laurel cheerfully to many a keen-fanged pet
Whose name rings down the corridors of echoing time—and yet

WHEN Pete patrols the White House grounds, and in their own behoof
Three statesmen and an envoy are departing for the roof;
When Root is backed against the wall, and Taft is up a tree,
And Cortelyou has shed his coat that he may freely flee;
When two Supreme Court Judges o'er the hedges lightly leap,
Sans portion of their raiment, which they leave for Pete to keep.
We'll gladly let historic dogs enjoy their little day,
For Pete upholds the honor of the U. S. A.

How the Boston Elevated Works Men on Extra Cars

EDITOR BOSTON AMERICAN:

Enclosed you will find a list of working hours of regular extra men, which list was in effect at the Grove Hall car station until April 10, when it was succeeded by another list, which shows even a longer working day than this.

In the table the startling time of the men is shown to the left, and the time at which they get through work is shown on the right.

You can see that it takes from fourteen to eighteen hours' work a day to secure a day's pay. Allowing for the one and one-half hours necessary to get ready to go to work in the morning and about the same time spent in which to get ready for bed at night, you see that we have only five or six hours left in which to sleep.

This surely is not enough sleep for men who have to be up in all sorts of weather and who have to do the work we have to do. One consequence of these hours is that we often doze off to sleep occasionally while on our cars, and by so doing we have accidents.

Take for example two accidents which occurred in Broadway, Somerville, lately. In one of these accidents a pedestrian was cut to pieces by a car. In the other a motorman who found it hard to stay awake discovered that the body of a man lay under the wheels.

Each of these accidents occurred upon a well-lighted street.

You will find that 85 per cent. of the accidents on our cars are the result of the work of extra men who have to work day and night to make a day's pay, and who do not get the rest they need.

When the hearing on the railway bill was in progress at the State House we had "regular extras," as we call them, that got through their day's work in fourteen hours, but this system was in effect for only two weeks, until the bill was disposed of.

What we need for ourselves and for the good of the public is a shorter day for the regular extra men. You can see in this letter in any way you wish, but keep my name out of print, for I am still working for the company.
